

SIXTH MONDAY OF SHOPPING AT HANDE

BUYERS MARKET NOW ESTABLISHED BY THE ARRIVAL OF SUMMER

Wise Citizens Are Taking Advantage of the Prices Now Made by Merchants to Keep Stocks on the Move in Dull Season of Stores

The big shopping section of the Glendale Daily Press today is replete with new bargains for sale on Monday, the sixth of the series of shopping days, in the shop to shop plus Glendale Daily Press exposition of the stores of the city.

Six weeks of intensive study of the wishes of the buyers of Glendale have resulted this week in more goods, more merchants enrolled and better prices.

This has come about by the co-operation of the buying folks of Glendale who have, by just visiting the stores,

WHERE DO THE AMATEURS GET THE CASH?

BY PAUL R. MALLON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, June 30 (United Press).—A new storm is being stirred up to clean so-called amateur athletes of professionalism. Great gusts of words are blowing from east and west, howling for reform.

The latest furore is being directed against track athletes. It is said a great number of running stars are receiving money in secret for performing in various meets.

It is known that a policeman can't wear silk shirts and a high hat on his salary. It is known a taxi driver can't tour the world on his profits every year. It is known a poor man can't live in ease without money.

A leading runner said he had been offered $30,000 to tour the west with a bunch of gamblers for three months. Another sprinter said he had received an offer of $1,000 for one race.

Gamblers would take the runners to small towns, where there are some local "stars." They would let their man (under an assumed name, of course) lose a couple of hundred to loosen up the change of the small townsmen. Then they would sock in a good bet and depart with the cash.

One of these runners said he knew many of his brother amateurs that were being paid money. He named them, and named the amount they received for certain races.

"Everybody knows about it," he said. "But what can you do? If you raise a howl, they would sweep out the best runners in America.

"It would ruin the sport and spoil American chances in the next

Olympic games."

That's interesting. It certainly can't be considered "American sportsmanship" to let such a condition continue, the storm stirrer says. If any amateur is receiving money he should be kicked out. And the only reason nothing is being done about it is because it would spoil American chances in the Olympics.

The girl plainly admired him.

And, like Desdemona, wished him to tell her of his hairbreadth escapes in the imminent deadly breach, of moving accidents by flood and field. She knew he had been in the army and asked him where he served during the big war.

This gave him a palpable pause.

However, he cleared his throat several times and spoke up as bravely as he could.

"I was buying mules on the Missouri front."

"Ye Market Place" Which Is to Be Built on Los Feliz Road By Glendalians at Cost of $65,000

SIXTY BOY SCOUTS 'YE MARKET PLACE' IS ARE EN ROUTE TO UNIQUE $65,000 MART ON LOS FELIZ ROAD

Leave City Early This Morning for New Camp There Planned to Occupy 200 Feet Front with 175 Feet Depth Between Brand and Central Avenue; Court Parking Space

By CORINNE ORFF

"Ye Market Place" will be the name of Glendale's latest diversion in architecture, to be constructed at an approximate cost of $65,000, on the south side of Los Feliz road between Brand boulevard and Central avenue, by a group of Glendale capitalists. An entirely new idea in marketing is to be incorporated in the general plan. Construction is to begin within the next few weeks.

The property on which this building is to be erected has a frontage of 200 feet on Los Feliz road and a depth of 175 feet. The building, to be of Old English type of construction, will contain 23 stores, each to be about 20x30 feet.

They will all face a large courtyard, 107x135 feet in size, that is to be covered with crushed gravel and will afford ample accommodations for parking more than 50 automobiles.

The owners of the property have in mind the idea of providing a very unique type of building, such as would attract a large part of the first class traffic that passes over Los Feliz road and providing room for parking automobiles of customers without blocking traffic.

In front of all the stores will be a 13 foot sidewalk, to be protected by a covered arcade for the shoppers' promenade. The buildings will be of hollow tile, covered with plaster, and will be of the picturesque Old English type. At night the court will be lighted with spot lights. This new venture in the advantage over the popular court or arcade stores in that customers will be attracted alike to the stores at the back portion of the building, equally as much as to the stores towards the front by means of the parking facilities afforded. There will be two large rear rooms, each at each of the southern corner of the building.

The Glendale men who are actively interested in the erection of this building include John Croft, Dr. J. L. Flint, John Everson, C. L. Peckham, C. W. Mac and G. K. Bolt, also C. T. Green of Pasadena.

According to Mr. Peckham, one of the largest grocery houses in Los Angeles is endeavoring to make negotiations for renting the entire building. However, the owners are not entertaining this proposition as they prefer to have Glendale merchants occupy the single stores. The store spaces will probably be occupied by grocery stores, meat markets, vegetable stands, florist shops, fruit markets, lunch counters, delicatessen stores, etc.

SECOND SIGHT The young lady palmist at the church bazaar said to one of her clients: "I see by your hand you are going to be married."

"Wonderful," said the girl. "You are engaged to a man named Wilkins," continued the amateur seer.

"How amazing," gasped the girl. "Surely the lines on my hand can not reveal the name."

"Lines," sniffed the palmist. "Who said anything about lines? You are wearing the ring I returned to Mr. Kilkins three weeks ago."

Be a bread-and-butter girl of necessity, but have a few jam accomplishments!

Two rich business men were chatting together when an elderly man passed by. "That's Brown, he works for me," said one of the two. "He's an honest looking chap," remarked the other. "Has he any staying power?" "He has that," replied the first. "He began at the bottom of the ladder in '76, and he's stayed there ever since."

VAUDEVILLE AND CARMEL MYERS AT GLENDALE

Down to the Sea in Ships, Scheduled for Sunday and Monday

Besides the vaudeville, "Good-bye Girls," with Carmel Myers, who attended the K. C. picnic here recently, is the show tonight at the Glendale Theater. The film is a real thrill.

There is a gifted writer of "best sellers" who worries about a load of bills he thinks himself burdened with. He is continually slipping from medicine bottles. He is an excellent case for Dr. Coue and his auto-suggestion. His doctor tells him all he needs is a wife. The poor chap laughs. However, when he finishes rescuing a charming young girl from one adventure after another, a girl whom he had never before seen, he forgets his ailments and suffers only from love.

There is told a wonderful story of their adventures in the Fox photoplay, "Good-bye Girls," which starts a one-day run at the Glendale Theater tonight. William Russell, whose outdoor roles have always thrilled, is starring in this picture.

SUNDAY PROGRAM Few motion pictures that have ever found their way to successful completion have been attempted on the scale with which the Whaling Film Corporation has produced "Down to the Sea in Ships," the most colossal super-special which comes to the Glendale Theater on Sunday and Monday. Formed by a group of the leading business men of New Bedford, Mass., this corporation set about to perpetuate for all time, through the medium of the screen, the wealth of tradition that surrounds the whaling industry of that New England city. It was their purpose to picture the smallest detail the thrills, the romance and the hardships experienced by New Bedford whalersmen who have gone "down to the sea in ships" in pursuit of the biggest game the world provides.

At the outset, they secured the services of Elinor Clifton as director. Mr. Clifton was associated with David Wark Griffith, and he has some two score of successful pictures to his credit. In "Down to the Sea in Ships" he has produced a spectacle which will remain for all time as a monument to his genius as a director.

The outstanding fact in connection with the filming of this picture, which serves to make it unique in its field, is that it is one of the few productions in the history of motion pictures that has for its locale the tempestuous waters of the high seas, and the principal character in this breath-taking drama of the Atlantic is a ninety-ton whale. Nature has provided not only a background utterly impossible to imitate through any trick of photography, but it places in this setting an enraged leviathan of the deep, stung to fury by a deeply embedded harpoon.

GETTING HIM PLACED "What kind of a fellow is Watson?" asked Black.

"Well," replied White, "he's the kind of fellow who skates on thin ice, rocks the boat, races a train to the crossing and looks to see how much gas there is in the tank with a lighted match. Nobody knows why he has been able to live as long as he has."

GLENDALE SHEET METAL WORKS IS LOCAL INDUSTRY

Five Years of Expansion Finds Plant Growing With Trade Demand

For five years business has been on a steady increase at the Glendale Sheet Metal Works, 127 North Glendale avenue, according to reports made today. It is five years ago that this establishment held only three men in its employ. At the present time a large force of men are kept busy making estimates, filling orders and attending to the general routine work of the plant.

Indications are that the present year will carry a volume of business far in excess of that of any previous years, the Sheet Metal Works having been established ten years ago. The reason for this is found in the fact that building is being done on a basis of almost a 100 percent increase over last year in Glendale, and a large percentage of the homes are being built for the owners themselves, who are interested in personally purchasing the necessary building equipment.

In this connection the sheet metal works makes a specialty of installing heating systems. Many of the largest and finest homes in Glendale carry the work from this plant.

Welding and brazing is also being developed as a specialty. There is a shortage of this shop work in Glendale, and by making a specialty of a phase of the work that has been a sideline, it is predicted that almost all of the welding and brazing jobs in Glendale will be done in this shop.

A new addition to the shop equipment is the fender roll. There is a great demand for this work, and it is only recently that the necessary equipment has been installed. Experts in making skylights in the latest improved plans are also available at the Glendale Sheet Metal Works.

One of the most important phases of the jobs done by the sheet metal works is the making of estimates. For this line of work it is necessary that experts be employed who can read blue prints readily and interpret the same in prices. This is the work that is the heart of the business for any industry in the making of an estimate might easily result in the loss of the contract.

So the Sheet Metal Works has employed highly efficient estimators who can fill demands anywhere in any city or locality in Southern California. In fact, the work done by the Glendale Sheet Metal Works extends over Los Angeles, Hollywood, San Fernando, Eagle Rock, Van Nuys, Burbank, La Mesa and Oceanside, with calls continuing to come in from local contractors and builders.

One of the advantages offered by this shop is the wide field of supplies from which to secure materials. This enables the Glendale Sheet Metal Works to render prompt service on all orders, a recognized advantage in any business, and particularly in work where other jobs hinge on its completion.

LA CRESSENTA, June 30.—"Cuddle Doon," the hospital home of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Thomas, was the scene of one of the most delightful affairs of the summer when they entertained Thursday afternoon at a garden tea party for the benefit of the building fund for "St. Luke's of the Mountains," the Episcopal church to be erected in La Crescenta in the near future. A varied and delightful program was given during the afternoon which included interesting talks made by Bishop Joseph H. Johnson and Sir Henry Sharp. The artists who participated in the musical program were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cavanna of Glendale; Miss E. Minto and Miss Folsom of Los Angeles; Mrs. Tritt, of Montrose, and Mrs. Marguerite Hauber, of La Crescenta. Six of the Mission Play singers accompanied by Mrs. John S. McGroarty gave a beautiful program.

No small part of the pleasure of the afternoon was contributed by the dances given by Miss Frances Morgan of Tujunga, Misses Wiow and Marjorie Neilson of Montrose, Elizabeth Martin and Bonita Clark, a group of clever children from the Woods school of dancing and dramatic art of Glendale, attracted much attention. Costume dances were given by Rosina Brown, Ruth Bender, Joseph Taylor, Elizabeth Haviland and Evelyn Molar.

The hospitality of Mr. Thomas studio was enjoyed by more than 300 people.

Mrs. Grenville Brannan of Los Angeles, as the cigarette girl dressed in old-fashioned costume Louis XV period, attracted much attention.

Mrs. Stephen Raymond of Los Angeles, in Gypsy costume, was in charge of the fortune telling booth. Presiding at the table were Mrs. H. S. Bissell, Mrs. N. Scott, Mrs. H. A. Haskins, Mrs. George Dunlap, Mrs. Glen C. Peck, Mrs. A. V. Andrews and Miss Andrews of Los Angeles, and others.

Assisting Mrs. Thomas and presiding over the attractive booths were Mrs. Thomas S. Minford, Mrs. F. H. Anderson, Mrs. C. E. Calver, Mrs. J. C. Martin, Mrs. W. G. Mickel, Mrs. George Wellington, Mrs. A. Aiken, Mrs. M. Adams, Misses Jessie and Sara Conlin, Janet Culberson, Dorothy K. Marion Keith Echew C. Hacking, Gertrude Scowles, Mrs. T. O. Potts, Mrs. J. C. Martin, Mrs. Robert Wildrick, and Frank Anderson, of Evanston, Ill.

The out-of-town guests included Mrs. John P. Jones, Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. Eric Fowler, Mrs. Roy Jones, Mrs. C. Moran, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bee Woolwine of Los Angeles; John Steven McGroarty and Mrs. Wallace M. Moran, of Tujunga; Mrs. Edward F. Robins, Mr. and Mrs. M. Griffith and others of Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Flagg of San Gabriel, and Mrs. Nanno Woods of Glendale.

What Our Folks Are Doing

visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hamilton of Garfield, avenue, for the past month, will leave Monday for her home in Cedar Falls, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Brummel and son Allen and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Thompson and family are leaving Glendale by automobile Sunday morning on a three weeks' outing at Bishop, Calif.

A group of Glendale friends who spent the day Friday with Mrs. James Appel at her summer cottage at Manhattan, included Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. George Pratt and house guest, Mrs. Wills, and Mrs. Arthur Dibbern.

Dr. F. M. Rossiter of 210-A West Broadway, president of the Glendale Physicians' club, returned this morning from San Francisco, where he has been attending the American Medical association convention.

J. W. Burton, the realtor, who has been suffering from asthma and neuritis following an attack of flu months ago, is spending his nights in a tent on "Griggs Terrace" in the Sierra Madre mountains above Montrose and La Graciosa and is experiencing benefit.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Morthland and son Rex of 335 West Dryden street are planning to leave Glendale in about a week on an automobile trip to Kansas. They will be gone until September. Among the places they will visit will be Kansas City, Topeka, the Grand Canyon and other points of interest en route.

The meeting of high school trustees Thursday night revealed that a general exodus of school officials is imminent. Mr. and Mrs. Moyses, principal and vice-principal, are leaving Saturday to attend the session of the N. E. A. at Oakland, and from there will motor north, possibly to the Canadian boundary. They may be gone until the first of August. Trustee Pearce is going east between the 5th and 9th of July. Dr. Harry Brown goes to San Francisco to attend a meeting of the state medical board of examiners of which he is president, and which will be held the 9th of July. H. W. Yarik goes about the 15th, and Capt. Thomas D. Watson is making like plans for absence from the city.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bartlett of 233 West Broadway, started yesterday on a two weeks' trip to Yosemite.

Dr. H. E. Boyer returned yesterday from attendance on the 74th annual convention of the American Medical association held at San Francisco at which about 1000 medical men were assembled.

PRESIDENT TO VISIT GLENDALE

Secretary Sanders of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce devoted most of this morning to a conference with the advance agent of President Harding, Walter Brown, to the chairman of the Los Angeles committee of arrangements for the entertainment of the president, and Congressman Walter Lineberger. The tentative program for that conference indicated that the second day of the president's stay in Los Angeles would be given to a trip to the Hollywood Bowl, from there to Universal City, then through Lankershim and Burbank, where no stops will be made, and on to Glendale, where a brief stop may be made sufficient in length for the president to address a group of school children, and on to Pasadena, which he is scheduled to reach at 12 o'clock. There will be an opportunity for any corner-store laying by the president of the Glendale sanitarian.

SWAINS PROPOSE AT 24; MAIDS ARE WON WHEN 21

[By Associated Press] LONDON, June 29.—High taxes and unemployment cannot stop Dan Cupid, or at least they could not in 1921, which is the last year for which full vital statistics have been completed in Britain. That year the marriage rate was increased 16.9 persons per 1,000, a rate that has not been exceeded since 1874, except for the war and post-war years of 1915-1920.

The usual ages for the newlyweds were 24 for the men and 21 for the women. Divorces were more numerous than ever before. Except for the war years, the birth rate of 22.4 per 1,000 was the lowest record since 1837.

About 15,000 and almost 50,000 girls married before reaching 21, and sixty men and 12 women married after attaining the age of 30.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL OPEN ON MONDAY

Program of the Summer Session Is Announced

The Vacation Bible school of the Glendale Presbyterian church will open Monday morning at 9 o'clock. For several years past there has been a large attendance at this school and plans are completed to accommodate as many or more than in former years. These schools have been very popular all over the United States and Glendale has been no exception to other places in this respect. It has the advantage of being conducted in the vacation period when children are free from the usual school work and for this reason it avails itself of the spare time of the most competent teachers. It provides helpful occupation for a period of time which is often wasted. It also provides an easily available way of increasing the time used for religious instruction.

The school is open and free for all children of any church, or no church, from the ages of five to fifteen. The most carefully planned Bible lessons are provided for the different grades of pupils and this forms a most important part of the work. Music and singing will be given much time and particular attention will be given to memorizing the grand old hymns of the church. There will be craft work most attractively presented, habit and health talks and both Bible and missionary stories. Profiting from the experiences of former years the entire work has been so planned that it will be most attractive and helpful for all the children who are able to attend. The school will be in session from 9 until 11:45 each week day except Saturday.

The following will be the heads of their respective departments: Miss Mary MacDonald, principal, and in charge of the primary department; Miss MacDonald has had several years' experience teaching in the public schools of Canada and is also a most efficient student of the Bible Institute. Miss Marjorie Smith will have charge of the junior girls. Miss Smith is a Christian Endeavor expert and has recently graduated from the Bible Institute and is looking forward to foreign missionary work in China. Miss Martha Eilers will have charge of the kindergarten department. Miss Eilers is a graduate of Glendale high school and has proven a most successful Sunday school instructor. Miss Bessie M. Field will have charge of the junior boys' work. Miss Field is a graduate of Occidental college, and also a valued member of the faculty of the Glendale high school.

Mrs. C. M. L. Nelson and Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts will have charge of all instruction in singing. With this splendid corps of teachers it is confidently expected that the school will be one of the most successful in Southern California. All parents are cordially invited to send their children to this Vacation Bible school. Many specially attractive features not enumerated above will be presented from time to time as the school progresses.

SEYMOUR THOMAS' ENTERTAIN AT SUPPER HOUR

LA CRESCENT, June 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Thomas were host and hostess at a delightful supper party Thursday evening at the close of their successful garden tea as a benefit for the Episcopal church to be erected here in the near future. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Raymond, Mrs. Greenville Branan of Los Angeles, Dr. and Mrs. E. Bowers, Mr. and Mrs. C. Winslow, and Mr. Paul Swan, noted painter, sculptor and dancer of Pasadena.

Members of the Central Avenue Improvement association expect to hold a meeting next Tuesday night to close in their campaign for the paving of that thoroughfare and lighting of same and to submit petitions to the city council.

WEAR SMILES AFTER MILES OF HIKING

A group of Glendadians who hit the moonlit trail for Roberts' camp Thursday night, and returned Friday night, are disputing the way to describe their after-hike feelings. One of them aptly put it this way: "sore" because someone in the party had called him a "little stiff." They all admit that that's about the truth of it, though, but Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Dutton, Mr. and Mrs. Herold, Mrs. Clement, Miss Edna Prendeville, Miss Nan Wilson and J. Pickens, who composed the party, all voted that they enjoyed the hike nevertheless, and wouldn't refuse a second invitation. Dutton, better known as Dutton the Home Fynder, found a cosy cabin for them to occupy over night at Roberts'.

EASTERN STARS GATHER AT THE TEMPLE

Guests at Special Social Evening of Glen Eyrie Chapter

New members and past matrons and patrons were the guests at a special social meeting and reception held last night by Glen Eyrie chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, at Masonic Temple. As the members were met they were greeted by a committee including Mrs. Evelyn Pierce as worthy high priestess. Very clever favors have been prepared by the committee in charge of which Mrs. Wm. McMillan is chairman. Kelly's orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

The first meeting of the Glendale summer club for the study of parliamentary law was held Friday morning at the public library, with an enthusiastic group of ten present.

This club, which will meet each Friday morning at 10 o'clock, under the name of "Roberts' Rules of Order, Revised," has been organized for the purpose of training women to conduct organization meetings according to the accepted rules of order, and is especially open to club presidents who feel that it would be beneficial to brush up on points in rules of order.

Mrs. C. H. Whitney was elected president, Mrs. Julian W. Bennett, secretary, and Mrs. Amy L. Hjorth, press chairman. Mrs. Bennett was made chairman of the membership committee, and Mrs. A. H. Brown and Mrs. Greenwalt appointed as members of this committee. Mrs. Phillips will be social chairman.

Following the suggestion made by Mrs. Brown, the class is to be divided into two sections, with a captain appointed for each section; in order to stimulate activities in the club.

The charter members who met yesterday, were most enthusiastic over the outlook and spent an enjoyable morning in organizing. They extend the invitation to all who are interested in the study of parliamentary law. No dues are charged.

LEGION AUXILIARY TO INITIATE SIX CANDIDATES

Members of the American Legion auxiliary will meet at the Legion hall Monday night, at 8 o'clock, when six new members will be initiated. The members of the Legion are also invited to attend the joint meeting. Mrs. Margaret Keading, president of the auxiliary, Mrs. C. T. Jones and Mrs. Eugene Gilliland, have charge of arranging a surprise program to be given at 9 o'clock. Refreshments will be served.

A meeting has been called for all old and new members of the Shakespeare section of the Tuesday Afternoon club to be held at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon in the tea room of the clubhouse. The purpose of the meeting is to play for social affairs for the summer.

BOYS' BAND REHEARSALS IS CALLED OFF SUNDAY

The rehearsal of the Community Service boys' band, directed by Howard Cavanaugh, which was scheduled for Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, has been called off. The next meeting of the band will be Wednesday evening, July 11 at the Cavanaugh school at 7:30 o'clock.

PHILATHEA CLASS OF GIRLS ARE ON PICNIC

The Philathea class of girls of the Baptist Sunday school, taught by Miss Sara Pollard, is having a picnic tonight at Brookside park at 6 p. m. They will return about 8 p. m. The class numbers ten.

THE CAUSE OF THE FIRE

The insurance adjuster who had been investigating the fire turned to go. "I came down here to find out the cause of this fire and I have done so," he remarked. "That's what I want to know. What caused it?" remarked the house owner. "It's a plain case of friction." "What means friction?" "The fire was undoubtedly caused by rubbing a $3000 insurance policy on a $2000 house."

AMERICAN LEGION HAS NEW RECORD

The largest crowd to attend any of the meetings of Glendale post No. 127, American Legion, was present at the social evening Friday night and included over 150 members from the local post and visitors from Huntington Park, Monrovia, Pasadena, Eagle Rock, representatives from the Los Angeles interpost council and other posts throughout Southern California.

Comrade Chalmer Day, commander of the Glendale post, opened the meeting and after a few words of greeting turned the remainder of the evening over to W. H. Regelin, who had prepared a most interesting program of entertainment. Dancing and singing by professional artists and musical selections by the Metropolitan Jazz orchestra were included on the program.

After the entertainment "chow" was served. The Huntington Park delegation extended an invitation to members of the Glendale post to attend their social night on Monday at the Legion hall at Huntington Park, where they will endeavor to put on a program which they hope will equal that given last night.

A committee was appointed to have charge of the activities of the Glendale post for the month of July, including Comrade Gilliland, chairman; Comrade Crocker and Comrade Robert Corrigian.

Representatives from the Los Angeles interpost council will be present at the meeting of the Glendale Legion on Friday night and will give short talks.

Weather Element in Home Building

Weather elements appear in any climate. Nowhere can you build a home where climatic conditions are not present. Many, after having come to California, have built; and because of the superior climate here, they have not built as substantial a home, as they would have erected elsewhere.

But regardless of the materials you use, there is one item which you cannot afford to neglect—sheet metal work. Whether your home cost $1500 or $15,000, good sheet metal work is necessary to keep out summer fogs and winter rains. Nothing ruins an interior more quickly than water seepage and leaks.

Sheet metal work isn't expensive—the lack of it is. You may save a few dollars now, but you pay for the absence of it in the end.

Summer is the time in which to have this kind of work done—not later, when the damage has been done.

To have a special representative call at your home and make an estimate—whether for a new dwelling or for repairs on the old one—phone, write or call the Glendale Sheet Metal Works. You will be placed under no obligation.

There is nothing more soothing for either a burn or a scald than the white of an egg. It is contact with the air which makes a burn so painful, and the egg acts as a varnish and excludes the air completely, also preventing inflammation.

PARIS, June 30. (United Press). "Whatever the word Iroquois may mean in 'American,' it will be perfectly good French for 'bizarre' when applied to a person one hundred years from now, when the French Academy expect to have completed their revision of the recognized dictionary of the language. The Iroquois have passed out as a nation, the Academicians decided, but in the year of grace 2023, if somebody wants to call a fellow human a 'strange bird' or a 'funny guy,' he will have a perfect right to utilize the name of the lost nation for his purpose.
To prevent valuable vases and other ornaments from so easily falling over, put a small quantity of sand in the bottom, or even a few pieces of lead.

1 ANNOUNCEMENTS

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
In advertising my business for sale, I wish it distinctly understood that I am not "going out of business," "retiring," "traveling for my health," or "devoting my time to golf, fishing, etc."
I have come to the conclusion that I can make more real profit and have more time to myself if I confine my operations to buying and selling on my own account. I will, of course, retain my license, board membership, and all rights and privileges of a citizen.

11 Business Opportunities

FOR SALE—Best equipped and one of the largest real estate offices in Glendale. Will sell on actual value of lease, furniture and fixtures. The good-will is worth a lot of money, but am not asking one cent for it. Only tangible value, $5000 cash; no triflers, wishers or hoopers. This is a real business and will pay for itself. Will salvage what I ask. But I want to work through this office myself, so am particular as to who takes it.

What I can help, I will help with will that is stout.
 And what I can do, I will do it;
 And what I can't help I won't worry about,
 And what I can't do, I won't rue it.

I won't scold and fret over things that must be.
 For that holds quite naught for my gaining.
 I'll be glad for the sunshine that floods over me,
 And I won't fuss and fume when it's raining.

For what is beyond me, I won't fret and cry,
 I won't let that stop all my laughter,
 There are many things near I can get if I try,
 And those are the things I am after.

And if I can't get what I want, I won't fret,
 For fretting makes losses quite double,
 I'll find it a good rule to want what I get,
 And then I won't have any trouble.

I can't sweep the cobwebs all out of the sky,
 But that is no reason for ruing,
 I can sweep off the dust from my stoop if I try,
 And that is a good thing for doing.

There's plenty of joy here for maid and for man,
 And let us not scoff once or doubt it,
 With cheer and good nature we'll do what we can,
 Wh it we can't, let's not worry about it.

DUMM AND DUMMER ON BUYING A HOME IN GERMANY

Attractive six and seven-room many at once if they could com-homes in Germany can be bought mune. for $200 in American money. One hundred dollars will buy a five-room bungalow. For $250 you can buy a two-family house. Five hundred dollars will buy a showplace, and $1,000 will buy a couple of castles.

New York homeseekers are expressing keen interest. Many of them would buy a home in Ger-

Senator Dumm and Representative Dummer have been investigating.

"I've been telling the wife we should have a little home," said Dumm, "and these German houses seem the opportunity of a lifetime.
 They're a bit far from my office in New York and I'd be pretty late getting home to supper, but I'd do my best."

"I saw an advertisement of an eight-room house in Berlin for $155.
 It's a fine home on a lot 300 feet by 250. It has a boxwood hedge, trees, shrubbery and flowers and every modern improvement."

"Are you going to buy it?" asked Dummer.

"No. I've offered the agent $137 for it."
 "Yes; but no matter what price a real estate agent asks for a house, always offer him less. I've been figuring up how I could swing it.
 I can buy it with a small amount down. There is a first mortgage of $100 and a second mortgage of $50.
 Even if I pay the asking price for it the place will cost me only $5.
 That's fairly reasonable. Well, at that rate I have to allow 6 per cent on the two mortgages. That's $9.
 And 6 per cent on my investment of $5. That's 30 cents. Over in Germany you can insure a house like that for about 2 cents a year.
 You can buy all the gas and water you can use for a nickel a year in American money, and I figure coal will cost me 11 cents a ton. Total that up and you'll see my entire carrying charges will be only $9.46
 a year."

"That's very reasonable," admitted Dummer. "It's cheaper than paying rent."

"And all the time I'm acquiring my own home. Of course I'll want to be sensible and pay off a little each year. I think that I'll pay $5 annually on the second mortgage.
 In ten years I'll have that lifted.
 Then I'll start paying $10 a year off the first mortgage. In another ten years I'll own the house free and clear."

"I wouldn't pay off the entire first mortgage," insisted Dummer.
 "Why not?"

"It's a good plan to leave a little mortgage on so you sell it easier."
 "But when a house is to be sold for $150 or $200 the buyer isn't going to quibble over terms, is he?"
 asked Dumm.

"Sure he is. It's human nature to quibble over terms when buying a piece of property. No matter if you offered a fine ten-room house for sale this minute for $75 you'd find most of the house hunters would offer you $60 and try to get you to take back a $55.50 mortgage."

"I suppose so," agreed Dumm.

"What condition is this German house in that you are thinking of buying? Will it need any repairs?"
 "Oh, a few repairs, but they don't cost anything in Germany in American money. Why, I wrote a German contractor asking him to make a bid on building a sun parlor, adding a colonial porch, finishing off three attic rooms, and building a two-car garage, and do you know what his bid was in American money?"

"What was it?"

"Forty-nine cents," replied Dumm.

"Dumm, old pal, could you let me have $2?" Dummer suddenly asked.

"Well, I've got $3, and if I had $5 I'd buy a home of my own."

 REVUE TO OPEN ON MONDAY

Leading Musicians Have United for the Presentation

Leading musicians of Southern California have aided officials of the American Historical Review and Motion Picture Industrial Exposition, to be held at Los Angeles, July 2 to August 4, in arranging most attractive and elaborate musical programs.

Daily recitals on two huge pipe organs installed by the Rudolph Wurlitzer company at Los Angeles street will be one of the principal attractions. Noted organists will be at the organs in the Church around the Corner and Women's auditorium.

Vested choirs, vocalists of international renown, nationally known instrumental soloists and others will be heard in the recitals.
 Services and programs are to be saturated by selections appropriate to the general theme of the exposition setting and Latin-American music will be rendered by representatives from the picturesque little republics, and students studying with professors from those countries.

The Wurlitzer organs, according to M. M. Stein, representative of the concern furnishing the instruments, will add a unique touch to the exposition, as the music will be heard in all parts of the grounds during the recitals. The instruments are insured for $70,000 and are said to be the latest and most improved organs on the Pacific coast.

Steel trussed balconies were constructed to accommodate the huge instruments in the church and auditorium. The organs contain many innovations in construction.

 thinks his wife ought to be tickled to death when he brings company to dinner without notifying her.

CALL OF OPEN ROAD LEADS MOTORIST TO BEAUTIFUL CANYON

The Jaunt This Week Will Be Up Into the Unsurpassed San Dimas Canyon—Close To City By That Name

JUST THIRTY-FIVE MILES FROM GLENDALE

Along The Length of This Canyon There are Dozens of Pretty Camping Places That Invite the Motorist.

Now for a little trip to the hills. In order that the owner of the auto may get a breath of the trees and the sagebrush, the trip this week will be to one of the prettiest canyons in this section.

San Dimas canyon, where the motorists will be directed this week, lies about 35 miles from Los Angeles and is almost directly east of Glendale. This canyon lies northeast of the city of San Dimas and is reached from the foothill boulevard, a short distance east of Glendale.

From Glendale the route lies out East Colorado street, through Eagle Rock to Pasadena.

Continue through this place on

Colorado street to Santa Anita avenue, where you turn north and continue two blocks. Upon turning east the motorist will be on the celebrated Foothill boulevard.

Continue east past the road leading up to Sierra Madre and on to Monrovia. It is to the north of this place that the Sawpit canyon runs. This is often visited by people of that section, especially during the summer season.

Continue east from Monrovia along the Foothill boulevard to and through Duarte, and on to Azusa.

The San Gabriel river runs north from Azusa, and during the year thousands of people from this section spend more or less time in this canyon, which is very accessible and is truly a scenic wonder.

But on the trip today continue east on the boulevard to a point about eight or ten miles east of Azusa, where signposts erected by the

Auto Club of Southern California will be seen directing the way into San Dimas canyon.

A fairly good road leads for five or six miles up the canyon. Along this road there are dozens of dandy places for the party wishing to camp overnight. A fire permit must be secured from the ranger, fire warden or the local branch of the Auto Club of Southern California

if the motorist wishes to build a fire in this canyon. This is an ideal canyon in which to enjoy a two-day or a day-and-a-half outing. If the motorist wants to picnic just for the day, this canyon is equally ideal. It has many little secluded nooks beneath the trees.

The farther up the canyon you go the wilder it gets. It is just the place for the tired business man to go if he wants to forget his troubles, or if he wants to come back after the busy cares of the week. A jaunt up into this canyon will make you forget petty troubles and will send you back to the office ready for the hard knocks of the coming week.

When the time comes to leave the canyon, the motorist should proceed down the canyon, past the old quarry, and onto the boulevard route. After striking the highway, continue west for a distance of possibly a mile and a half, where turn left (south) along the road leading to San Dimas. Continue to the through San Dimas, and along the Covina road to the city by that name. Continue through Covina

and down along the Covina-EI

Monte road to El Monte. After passing through El Monte continue on through Savannah and on to San Gabriel.

From San Gabriel, turn right

(north) along the road leading to Lamanda Park. After reaching

Lamanda Park, turn left (west)

and go to and through Pasadena, across the big Colorado street bridge and on through Pasadena into Glendale.

It will take about two hours and a half comfortable driving to reach

TRACKLESS CARS WORTHY OF SUPPORT

Trackless trolleys deserve the support of motorists if only for the one reason that they will abolish the present evil of requiring passengers to mount and dismount in the center of the street. These new trolleys are having a hard struggle for existence, being handicapped by property owners who don't want street car lines on their streets and by reports that they may not be profitable. These considerations are of no interest to the motorist, nor to those who are aiming toward increased transportation facilities with less danger.

The motorist would like to see street car tracks and conventional trolleys a thing of the past. He is tired of just missing the trolley passenger who foolishly steps into the way of his car. He wants to see the trolley step safely to the curb from the trolley. And the trackless trolley is the answer. (Copyright, 1923, by the Ullman Feature Service)

NATIONAL GAS TAX SUGGESTED

Success of the gasoline taxes in so many states is encouraging members of congress to believe that a federal sales tax can be put through the next assembly. If the trend of federal legislation is to be generally influenced by the state legislatures, the sixty-eighth congress will furnish a more amusing picture than its many frivolous predecessors.

The forty-eighth legislature which were in session this year devoted a major part of their time to legislation bearing on automobile ownership, license, operation, purchase, sale, insurance, fuel, highway, equipment, capacity, weight, etc. If there are any other features of our ownership and use that were overlooked in the zealous attentions of legislators they will grieve sorely to learn of them.

Reformers and conservationists who have been seeking a new issue may take a tip from this. All of the paper, individual energy and local efforts that are wasted through the straining efforts of legislators to do something, for, to take something away from automobile owners would make up a staggering national economic waste if some numerical genius would get busy and figure it up.

Just to run over a list of things, bills still before legislators June 15:

Florida—Eleven measures on roads, tires, etc.; one to establish highway system and commission; two providing that motorists must stop before crossing railroad; to license mechanics; to license non-resident owners of motor vehicles; to protect taxicab drivers in collection of their charges (few users will concede they need any); to revise license fees and license plate use of automobile dealers (some where in the list of every state will be found some thing for the automobile dealer); to increase the gasoline tax.

Illinois—To limit gross weight of trucks to 300 pounds per linear inch of axle measured from the centers of the wheels. One legislator here by wins a place for introducing an entirely new and novel idea for the application of a weight restriction.

Pennsylvania—Making owner liable for negligent operation of vehicle by another person; to repeal gasoline tax and put one cent on all liquid fuel used in state. Somebody discovered that a lot of rich folks probably used kerosene stoves in summer kitchens.

Texas—Gross sales tax of one-fourth of one per cent on all tires, tubes, etc.; four bills on gasoline tax, its collection, calling for reports on sales, etc.; Governor Neff had vetoed appropriations, bills and the third extraordinary session seems destined to repeat the comedy of the three previous sessions.

Massachusetts—A gasoline tax. It apparently has come to be good practice in all legislatures for the "chambers of the people" when in doubt to introduce a gasoline tax or motor car license bill. Somebody will always support it part way and the motorists themselves seem apathetic, relying upon American ingenuity to dodge the tax anyway.

Twenty-five states have either retained old laws or enacted new ones, providing a gasoline tax, as of May 1 this year. The 17 states which had the tax up to this year retained it. No bills for repeal of the tax were submitted. Nine other states added the tax and laws for imposing it were pending enactment in seven states. This makes a total of 33 states out of 41 which legislatures were in session this year, that either had such a tax, added it or were considering legislation for it. During June, Massachusetts passed a gasoline tax which is not yet law. Texas, Florida and Pennsylvania legislatures still in session were attempting to improve and increase old gasoline taxes.

Nine states this year defeated gasoline tax measures and six others defeated measures designed to increase the tax. Five states voted through bills that increased the old tax. In twenty-five states which did not have gasoline taxes in effect prior to 1923, there were efforts to establish the tax. In Minnesota there was adopted a measure providing for a change in the state constitution that will make permissible a gasoline taxing statute.

CAMPAIGN BY S. P. NATURE FEATURES TO REDUCE MISHAPS FROM LOFTY YOSEMITE

A four months' campaign to reduce accidents to motorists at grade crossings has just been inaugurated by the Southern Pacific company in co-operation with the American Railway association.

Hundreds of thousands of posters and other advertising matter is being distributed and displayed in conspicuous places where it will come to the attention of drivers of automobiles and other vehicles.

"The number of accidents to motorists at grade crossings is appalling," said R. J. Clancy, in charge of safety work for the Southern Pacific company.

"This campaign is similar to the campaigns held in the past few years which resulted in a decrease of accidents at grade crossings. The Southern Pacific company is working energetically to reduce the terrible toll of life and property caused chiefly by careless motorists trying to beat trains to crossings."

During the five years ending December 31, 1922, there were 3,708 accidents to motorists at grade crossings on the Southern Pacific system. During this period 261 people were killed and 1,237 injured in grade crossing accidents.

An idea of the carelessness of motorists is shown by the fact that in this five-year period 1,507 machines ran on track in front of train, 906 ran into side of train, 443 stalled on track directly in front of trains, 119 skidded into side of trains, 283 ran into crossing gates, and 28 ran into crossing flagmen attempting to warn them of approaching trains. Two of the crossing flagmen were killed and 23 injured.

During the same five-year period throughout the whole country there were 9,101 people killed and 24,208 injured at grade crossings, Clancy stated. He pointed out that a train running at usual speed reaches the crossing in 18 seconds from a point one-quarter of a mile away.

BRYCE CANYON IS REAL SCENIC GEM

Bryce canyon, near Paragonah, Arizona, is one of the most appealing bits of scenery in the whole United States, according to Mr. Dilley, of the Dilley & Armstrong company, 115 West Harvard, local Star agents. It is a place which any motorist would be glad to visit. Bryce canyon (a really inappropriate name for the world's greatest fairyland) can be reached from the Arrowhead trail by turning off at Paragonah and taking the Bear valley road to Panguitch, thence a 25 mile trek to the rim of the amphitheatre at an elevation of 8000 feet. The motorist who is heading north from the Grand canyon passes through Fredonia, Kanab and Alton on the Grand canyon highway and need not enter Panguitch to reach Bryce.

No words can express the beauty of this wonderland at sunrise and sunset—the colors change before your eyes and all the weird figures seem to come to life.

Numerous trails lead down into the very labyrinth and the novelty of wandering among giant columns of sandstone higher than the tallest office building, and sculptured figures such as Queen Victoria, the Gargoyles, Quaker Lady, Statue of Liberty, Greek Orators and other highly lifelike statues carved by the hand of nature, can only be experienced as they are appreciated. Excellent accommodations may be had at Bryce.

YOSEMITE MAIL INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN

Postmaster Alexander has issued new instructions for the correct addressing of Yosemite National Park mail and, unless these instructions are followed carefully, visitors may find themselves inconvenienced in obtaining important first-class mail as well as needed supplies sent them by parcel post. With the opening of several new public camps in the upper end of Yosemite Valley, the problem of mail delivery has been complicated because this region is several miles from the main postoffice.

Here is how mail should be addressed: Guests of Yosemite Lodge will receive their mail direct at that resort if addressed to them at Yosemite Lodge, Cal. Guests of Camp Curry will receive their mail direct at that resort if addressed to them at "Camp Curry, Cal." As both these resorts have their own post-offices, there is no need of mentioning the name of the main post-office.

Campers in public camps Upper 7, 10, 11, 12, 14, 15, 16 and 20, which are near Camp Curry, should have their mail addressed "Camp Curry, Cal." and should call at that office. Campers in all other public camps should have their mail addressed "Yosemite National Park, Cal." and should call at the main postoffice in the village.

MENTAL "EXAM" FOR FRENCH
DRIVERS

To obtain a driver's license in France it is now proposed that applicants not only be made to undergo a traffic examination in congested districts, guiding their cars through narrow streets clogged with vehicles, but also that they submit to a rigid medical inspection, which will include a study of any ancestral indications of insanity.

DENVER PARKS DID GOOD SERVICE
LAST YEAR

More than 750,000 tourists motored through the Denver Mountain parks last year. In other words, everybody in Delaware and Vermont, and half the folks of New Hampshire could motor out to Colorado this summer without surprising the Denver folks in the least.

In Iowa the whole state's population could cavort in Iowa-owned cars without loading more than five people to any one machine.

The retail value of cars financed over a period of four years by one acceptance company—the largest, exceeded $440,000,000. The money lenders of fifty years ago must be turning over in their graves.

Of 52 firms employing salesmen with automobiles the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce finds that 14 admit carrying no insurance, which is good evidence that many firms do not realize that they are liable for damages which cars, operated in their interests, inflict.

AUTO INDUSTRY OF STATE IS HEALTHY

Comparative figures compiled by Will H. Marsh, chief of the Division of Motor Vehicles, for the month of May show a very healthy increase in the automobile industry in the state of California.

Receipts of the department for May, 1922, amounted to $253,591.55, whereas May, 1923, shows a total collection of $275,986.65, or an increase over the same month of one year ago of $22,395.10. The total registrations for May, 1922, were 27,853, whereas May, 1923, showed 40,853, or a net increase of 13,000 machines. Although the increase this year over the same month last year amounts to approximately 30 per cent, the pay roll costs for the department show a decided decrease. The pay roll of May, 1922, was $28,751.39, whereas the 1923 pay roll amounted to $26,736.72, a net saving in this item alone of $2,014.67.

CONCERNING BATTERY

Always use a standard battery for the motor vehicle. There are no fewer than 100 different makes on the market, and a large percentage of these are virtually worthless when compared to batteries made by responsible concerns.

NEW LAW WON'T BRING SPEED WAVE, CLAIM
ALL ROADS LEAD TO GLENDALE

Ridiculing the rumor of test cases to ascertain the validity of the provision in the Motor Vehicle act which goes into effect September 1—practically eliminating "speed traps" from California highways—by making testimony thus secured invalid, officials of the Auto Club of California did not mean an avalanche of reckless speeding.

This provision of the new Motor Vehicle act, as pointed out by the Auto Club, merely means that uniformed officers will patrol the highways "in the open," rather than spending their time hiding behind billboards, or smoking their pipes under curtains. While it is also pointed out that the motoring organizations of California did not directly introduce or advocate the introduction of the "no speed traps" provision of the new act, they have concurred in the general belief that such a provision would work out for the betterment of all conditions concerned.

It is realized that it is impossible to cover every mile of California highways with uniformed officers, and also that a properly planned speed trap serves a proper purpose. According to the authorities, sentiment against speed traps developed from the localized habit of establishing a trap in such a secured unfair and valueless.

"Municipalities would not have their police officers hide behind signboards, or under houses rather than walk their beats, in order to prevent crime," pointed out the Auto Club officials. "There would be just as much sense in providing uniformed motorcycle officers on the highway and then pay them, as has been the case, to spend their entire day sitting comfortably in some secluded speed trap and nabbing motorists in that one small section of the road. By placing the speed officers out on the highways here, their mere presence in passing by will remind motorists that they must keep within the law as regards speed."

GLARE OF NICKEL
IS REAL NUISANCE

It hasn't been officially recognized as yet, but the excessive amount of nickel trimming on the front of cars is a nuisance which will shortly be classed with glaring headlights. When a heavily nickel-plated car is facing the sun the reflections from it are frequently sufficient to temporarily dazzle the approaching driver. If the nickel is kept highly polished—as it must be in order to look right—the effect is much the same as though a mirror were catching the rays of the afternoon sun and reflecting them into the eyes of the oncoming drivers. Windshields and headlights cause enough glare without adding to the nuisance with an excessive amount of nickel. A little nickel goes a long way toward beautifying the car, simplifying the work of polishing the trimmings, and safeguarding the driver who is easily affected by glare.

CLOSE OF YEAR 275,000 MILES ALL ROADS LEAD OUTLOOK IS GOOD TRAVELED BY OLDS TO GLENDALE

Today the automobile industry will close the most prosperous and progressive six months in its brilliant history, according to Mr. Kelley of the Kelley Motor Company, 230 North Brand, local Hudson dealers. In early January every indication pointed to a season of unbounded business and a glimpse of the balance sheets of the various manufacturers for the period now closing discloses promises fulfilled and predictions over-subscribed.

In early January, all those given to forecasts were most enthusiastic over trade during the first six months. Opinion seemed to be unanimous that the period would set a new mark. There were no pessimists and even the wildest optimist undershot his mark. But there were not so many dealers in predictions when the second half of the year was discussed.

"What is the outlook for the second half of the year?" This is the question that automobile men are asking.

Few agree that it will surpass or equal the unprecedented business of the last six months. A cross section of opinions voiced by several recognized executives is that while trade during the next six months will not equal the business of the last six months, it will set new marks as opposed to the corresponding period of last year.

A slight seasonal slowing up will probably take place in July and August with September showing a decided pick up. Smart fall trade is expected.

Two reasons in particular are given by manufacturers to substantiate predictions that business will continue good.

First, the farm market is just opening up. Good crops generally are assured throughout the country and the farmer who might have hesitated in buying a car up to this time has no further reason to delay. When it is remembered that more than half the total consumption of automobiles is registered in agricultural districts the significance of this condition may be appreciated.

Second, sales in the southern states have just started to assume their proper proportion in relation to the remainder of the country. The bulk of the sales in the last six months has gone into the metropolitan centers, industrial districts and California, which shows a better all-season market than any other state.

"According to present indications," said Mr. Kelley, "the industry will consume about 15 per cent less steel during the second half than during the first half of the year."

SOME FACTS AND FIGURES WORTH KNOWING

The automobile business is an open book to the public. First comes the financial statement of a motor car manufacturer, showing gross and net profits; and then comes the announcement of the number of cars he made and sold over this same period. All the interested car-buyer has to do is to divide the number of cars sold into the net profits. That tells him how much profit the manufacturer makes per car, and satisfies the prospect as to whether he is getting his money's worth. The dealer's commission can easily be ascertained.

One of the old Greek philosophers once remarked that "A fair exterior is a silent recommendation." The subject of this sketch, Mr. L. L. Tidd of Chicago, who operates a high-class private taxi service, evidently shares the same belief, for his cars are always clean and shiny, inside and out.

And Mr. Tidd is nothing if not systematic. When asked how long the car had been in operation (the "55" came out in 1915) he made reference to a pocket memo and gave this surprisingly efficient answer: "This car is just seven years, nine months and fourteen days old. I bought it new on May 1, 1915, and during that time it has covered over 275,000 miles."

Among other interesting things told about the car and its performance, Mr. Tidd said that the car's average service on each set of tires is from 20,000 to 30,000 miles. The battery was never out of the car until December 14, 1922. He has driven this Oldsmobile once to the Atlantic coast and at another time to Los Angeles. He related with particular satisfaction its performance during a friendly rivalry on the famous Tuscarora hill near Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, when his Oldsmobile alone, of all the contestants, was able to make this steep ascent in high gear.

During its years of service this car has earned its owner an amount equal to seven times its original cost, or a total of over $40,000. This Oldsmobile is a Model 55, six-cylinder touring car with limousine body and is equipped with Delco ignition. Mr. Tidd owns another Model 55 Oldsmobile with a record nearly as interesting and he is confident that each of these cars will give him at least five more years of dependable service.

The Oldsmobile is handled in Glendale by C. H. Hunter, 208-10 West Broadway.

COST OF REPAIRS CHEV. IS IDEAL ON HUP IS LOW AUTO FOR TOURING

"Costs of repair parts to Hupmobile owners during 1922 reached the lowest level they have ever attained since the corporation began recording these figures seven years ago," says Mr. French of Bartlett & French, Hup dealers in Glendale. "These costs to the owners of the 117,353 Hupmobiles in use last year were only $15.53 per car. This means every Hupmobile operated last year, including thousands more than eight years old, as well as still more thousands which have given six and seven years of useful service. It also includes thousands of cars operated under abnormal conditions abroad—through the jungles of South Africa under terrific heat and in places where roads are unknown, over the rough stretches of India and southeastern Europe, across the mountains of South America, and in various parts of the world where operating conditions are conducive to much higher operating costs than are expected in the United States."

"Had the average cost of repair parts included only cars made in the last three to five years, it would have constituted a discovery worth calling to the attention of our owners in an emphatic manner. But, in view of the fact that it takes into consideration every Hupmobile now in use, no matter what its age, we believe that it takes on the character of an unprecedented achievement."

"The above quoted figures were compiled by the Hupp Motor Car corporation after exhaustive research, and are not guess work."

LOCATING NOISE IN THE VALVES

The commonest engine noises are valve clicks and slaps, both of which may be detected by the rhythmic regularity of their occurrence. The reason for noisy valve operation is too great a clearance between the valve and its seat. In the case of overhead valves, too great a clearance between the lifter and the push rod will cause this trouble. The remedy is obviously the reduction of the clearance to the correct distance and this should be done while the engine is heated, in which condition the valves necessarily operate.

Occasionally noise in the valve mechanism is caused by the lifter being loose in its guide. To locate this trouble the entire lifter assembly will have to be removed. A worn lifter will have to be replaced, though in some cases, the guides may be sprung slightly so that they will grip the lifter more tightly, and this eliminates the trouble.

Another possible location of noise is at the cam, between which and the follower there may be too much clearance. Replacing the worn parts will usually eliminate the trouble. Worn valve stems or guides may also cause noise, and the removal of the valve springs will enable one to locate noise at this point. There should be no side play of the stem in its guide and if this condition is found to exist, bushings should be fitted in the guide or a new valve with an oversize stem should be installed.

GERMAN MOTORCYCLES
The motorcycle speed craze has now struck Germany. There is a great variety of models. Side cars range from elaborate coupes, seating two or three persons, to small bathtub shaped arrangements, with room for one person and a spare inner tube.

WRENCHES CAN BE MADE AT HOME

A monkey wrench is a very handy tool, but it has a bad habit of opening of its own accord and sometimes results in bruised knuckles. A complete set of solid wrenches is frequently too expensive for the car owner to purchase, but with a little labor, every car owner can possess a set which will answer every purpose. A wrench can be made from a piece of old pipe, flattened either at one or both ends or in the middle. The flattening is done by heating to redness and hammering. As the common grade of piping has a seam, care should be taken to keep the seam in the center of the flattened

Always the Leader in Fine Car Value

From the first, Hudson has outsold all fine cars. It has kept front position simply through the big margins of price and quality advantage it gives.

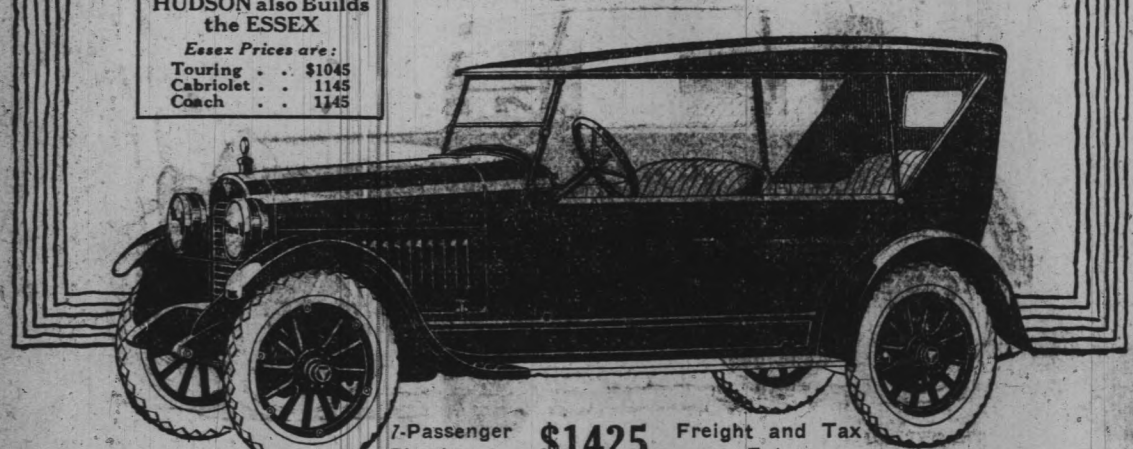

Hudson owners buy Hudsons again and again. Some have owned five, ten, sixteen successive Hudsons. And they have found each succeeding Hudson a smoother, finer, more reliable car. Today's Hudson is the finest ever built. And the price advantage stands out more prominently today than ever before.

NEW SERVICE IS FORCED LIABILITY INSTALLED BY MAXWELL

Mr. Lyman P. Clark, Glendale Motor Car Company, 124 West Colorado St., local Maxwell dealer, has instituted a new and complete motor car service plan that seems destined to revolutionize present-day ideas of automobile service merchandising and reduce owners' expense to an absolute minimum.

The system adopted by Mr. Clark is known as "Maxwell flat rate guaranteed service," and is the result of an extended period of careful study and planning by the service department of the Maxwell Motor Corporation.

Mr. Clark describes the plan as follows: "The motor car buyer today is inclined to lay less stress upon advertising claims, and more stress upon his own and his friend's experiences. In the final analysis of motor car values he has learned that the cost of service is the most important factor in the entire ownership period must be added to the initial cost in order to determine the real cost of the automobile. Thus an automobile of quality and value that has these elements paralleled in its dealers' service stations becomes a safe car to buy.

Maxwell flat rate guaranteed service assures him that this organization is not only equipped to give the service which the owner has the right to expect—but guarantees to do so—and at a fixed rate for each job. The high cost of loafing on the part of shop mechanics is eliminated. When a man brings his car to our service station we tell him in advance exactly what his required job will cost.

The service department of the Maxwell Motor Corporation is determined by close and careful supervision that a first-class mechanic, working steadily and efficiently with the highest grade and most modern equipment and tools, could perform a given service operation in a certain minimum time. These time-studies of the Maxwell Motor Corporation became the basis of the prescribed flat-rate charges which we have adopted.

Naturally, the best type of skilled men is constantly attracted to the shop working under this plan for the mechanic's earnings are limited only by his ability and willingness to perform satisfactory work. As each job is guaranteed in writing and must be right, work that is not well done is thrown back on the mechanic and he is the loser. The poor craftsman can not remain in a shop working under such system.

CUT RATE TIRE STORE PUTS ON SALE

On account of other business which requires most of his time, it is necessary for H. A. Conger, one of the proprietors of the Cut Rate Tire store at 212 West Broadway, to dispose of their entire stock of tires and tubes. The stock consists of all high grade tires and tubes and will be sold regardless of price.

The Cut Rate Tire store has been doing business at 212 West Broadway where they have built up a big business, and their patrons will, no doubt, be very glad to take advantage of this sale.

TWO HINTS FOR THE TRAFFIC DRIVER

In stopping at a crossing be careful to make your signal clear to the man behind. A careless "hand out" that looks more like a left turn signal will not only encourage the man behind to swing around to the right (in anticipation of your moving away to the left) but will mislead the traffic officer and suggest to him a way to get even with you.

Ever notice that when you try to turn into a busy street no one will slow down to give you a chance? There is a secret to this. Here's how: Keep your car moving slowly but surely, and the other drivers will think you mean business. One or two may slip by, but the determined attitude you take soon makes them stop and gives you an opening. If you come to a dead stop when trying to turn into a busy street you can make up your mind to remain there until everyone else has satisfied himself.

Rust does its greatest damage to nickel trimmings when the car has been out in the wet and kept out long enough to dry off, for under these conditions the owner believes that the nickel needs no attention. Having dried, he assumes that it will not rust. A few days later he notices that his lamps, bumper, etc., are speckled with rust spots that are difficult to remove. The rough polishing necessary to remove the rust does the nickel no good.

INSURANCE IS SUGGESTED

Automobile owners were gravely concerned for many weeks early in the sessions of 1923, by the efforts in 21 states to pass legislation making it compulsory for all automobile owners to have liability insurance. The National Automobile Dealers association was approached from many states with a wall of distress by the automobile clubs which seemed staggered by the very gall of this move. In most of the complaints received by the N. A. D. A. was the assertion that automobile insurance agents were behind the movement. The N. A. D. A. never was able to substantiate those charges which were broadly made by various automobile groups.

Investigation in some states gave reason to believe that this form of legislation would have laid a heavy burden of insurance cost on the owners. It was believed for a time that the question was so serious as to have a bearing on the price of automobiles. In some quarters it was intimated that the cost of owning a car would increase $250 a year.

Whatever may have been the reason, up to June 15, not a single state had passed the compulsory insurance measure, as applied to individually owned cars. The measure was defeated in Arkansas, Colorado, Maine, Minnesota, Missouri, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Washington, and Wyoming. Two states passed such measures but made them applicable only to common carriers. These were in Indiana and Vermont. And incidentally it is amusing to note also that both of these states then failed to pass the legislation which purposed to put the motor vehicle into the class of common carriers.

Three bills were introduced in Connecticut, one making insurance compulsory only on common carriers, and the other two making it compulsory for all automobiles. In Illinois the measure finally was restricted to taxicabs. Two bills in Massachusetts apply to all motor vehicles. In Rhode Island only two "tweens". Nebraska, New Hampshire had one bill each covering all cars. In each of New York and Pennsylvania and Wisconsin were two bills covering all cars.

New York also had five bill applying to all vehicles and one applying only to taxicabs. A measure pending in June in the Pennsylvania legislature was suspected as being the compulsory insurance measure in disguise. This was a bill making the owner of any vehicle liable for the negligent acts of another person operating the vehicle by the express or implied permission of the owner. The owner has been immune in most states, except where direct agency could be proved. This bill would force all owners to carry liability insurance in order to guard against any possible happening.

Endurance is the one real test of the merit of any motor car. Beauty of line and finish, power and speed are of little value unless there is endurance back of them and in them. Endurance, therefore, should be the first consideration of every automobile purchaser and user, and the proof of this statement is found in the fact that more and more motorists each year are seeking for the qualities which mean added years of service and satisfaction from their cars they buy.

Endurance is a quality which cannot be described. Neither can it be pictured nor estimated with any degree of accuracy. Only the most severe tests, covering thousands of miles under every variety and condition of road, load and weather, can prove endurance. Then, after the endurance qualities of the car are proved conclusively, and then only, can honest claims be made for them.

The Oldsmobile model 47, light eight engine was designed with the idea of building a compact, efficient, eight-cylinder engine with unusual ability to serve long and well. The frame, transmission, axles and other parts of the chassis were designed to withstand the wear and tear of years of hard driving.

The reports of the large number of endurance tests conducted with this model are the strongest possible evidence that the Oldsmobile light eight has but few, if any, equals in endurance, at any price. In fact, it is doubtful if any other car has proved its powers of endurance as conclusively and as often as the sturdy light eight.

Not every motorist has occasion to give his car such severe usage. But every Oldsmobile light eight owner knows his car has the stamina and strength to meet every demand he called to place upon it—not once, but countless times—through years of proud and satisfactory ownership.

A few of the light models are available at C. H. Hunter's, 208 West Broadway.

CLOGGED MUFFLER CAUSES TROUBLE
The most common cause for corroded exhaust-valve stems is a clogged muffler. When the muffler becomes clogged up with carbon it causes considerable back pressure. This causes the burning gas to pass down around the valve stem, burning off the oil and causing corrosion and wear.

DOCTORS SHOULD HAVE PARKING SPACE

Any one who has waited for the arrival of the doctor in a case of emergency will be quick to appreciate and give support to the suggestion that in the congested sections of every city there ought to be certain parking spaces designated for physicians' cars only. Whether the physician is or is not allowed to violate parking ordinances in case of necessity he always has a difficult time of it finding a place for his car, the patient suffering in the meantime. Spaces are frequently allotted, as cab stands, and there is no reason why a public servant to suffering humanity should not be granted similar privileges.

1923 IS BUMPER YEAR FOR DEALERS

Motor car men throughout the country are wondering just what is in store for them in the coming year. The past 12 months have been among the most prosperous in the history of the industry, and at least among those who are inclined to look upon the dark side of things, there is a tendency to imagine dire things to come as an aftermath of the period of exceptional prosperity.

Ralph E. Bliss, agent for the Paige and Jewett in Glendale, is inclined to take a more optimistic view of the future. "There is an adjustment period in sight, similar, in a way, to the one that followed the abnormal after-the-war boom," says Bliss. "This adjustment period, however, will come from a different cause. Costs of raw material, labor costs—everything that goes to make up a motor car—are on the upgrade. The demand for cars is greater than ever before and the manufacturers, taught by bitter experience not to rush into expensive programs as they did after the war, are unable to keep up with the clamor for more cars."

"The Paige factory, which also builds the Jewett six, has only recently issued a statement explaining its policy on prices. Prices will be kept at the lowest possible mark consistent with Paige quality. If necessary to do so in order to maintain the quality of the product, prices will be raised, although President H. M. Jewett of the company declares there is no immediate prospect of such a raise, but that he believes it will have to come eventually."

N. Y. LEADS IN BRAKE FIXING

New York City is leading the country in the campaign to reduce automobile accidents. The department of public safety is inspecting brakes every day. Mayor Hylan himself has had two drivers arrested for operating motor vehicles with defective brakes.

Other cities, however, now are following the example set by New York and are giving the necessary attention to the matter of protecting the public by forcing motorists to have their brakes in good operating condition. The National Safety Council and several similar organizations are doing fine work in this direction.

JELLISON PUTS ON TIRE SALE

Another of those big tire sales is going to be put on by E. V. Jellison, 1006 South Brand boulevard, next week.

"E. V." is one of those fellows who believes in putting on a real tire sale when he announces one, and for this reason those who secure one of the offerings next week will be saving real money.

In this sale Savage tires will be offered from $3.23 to the biggest tire kept in stock, which is large enough for any of the cars that are ever seen on the streets of this city.

The ordinary prices at which Jellison sells Savages are way down, but this fact is not being taken into consideration in this sale. The sale prices are so low that the ordinary figures are left way up in the air.

ONE METHOD OF COMPRESSION TEST

A simple means of testing compression is to provide a 150-pound gauge with bushings to fit either one-half inch pipe or seven-eighths inch spark plug holes. The bushings are screwed into the spark plug hole and the gauge into the bushing. To test compression insert the gauge, turn the engine over with the hand crank and note the gauge reading.—Automobile Digest.

Most carburetor troubles are preceded by some sort of warning, which is accounted for by the action of the engine.

lison sells Savages are way down, but this fact is not being taken into consideration in this sale. The sale prices are so low that the ordinary figures are left way up in the air.

INSURANCE HINT FOR AUTOISTS

If the car is adequately insured against theft, so-called "bootlegging insurance" is not necessary. When the machine is stolen and cannot be replenished by the insurance company because the thief has used it for bootlegging purposes, thus making it subject to seizure, the car owner has nothing additional to worry about. The insurance company's inability to get possession of the car which has actually been stolen does not weaken the owner's claim. The situation is different, of course, if the owner plans to use the car for bootlegging himself. In that case the profits usually justify being his own insurer.

CORK INSERTS

Corks to be used for inserts in clutch and brake facings should be cut straight and have a diameter of 25 per cent larger than the diameter of the hole in which they are to be placed. They may easily be compressed and forced through a tapertube, if they are first placed for a short time in hot water. The inserts should be driven home solidly, and they should then be trimmed with a sharp knife first dipped in hot water, or they may be sandpapered down to the correct height.—Automobile Digest.

CADILLAC 20 YEARS OLD KEEPS GOING

The quaintest of the quaint old cars is the title claimed for a 20-year old horseless carriage which for these many years has been chugging its victorious way through the sunny hills of New York state on responsible business errands.

You may see the ancient vehicle this summer, a Cadillac, with its buggy top, its air cushion springs, and its rear deck for commercial purposes, sturdily climbing higher and higher into the Catskills, the Alleghenies, the Adirondacks or the White mountains, or peacefully rolling along the Mohawk valley. For its owner covers all of this territory, and his profession calls for dependable transportation.

Prof. E. Button, of Cohoes, N. Y., magician and ventriloquist, who packs a bag of tricks as interesting as those of a Kellar or a Thurston, and plays to audiences within a large radius of the capital of the Empire state, reaching all of them with his one-cylinder Cadillac, is the proud owner. He rims the antique, piled high with Punch and Judy figures, spirit cabinets and other paraphernalia of legerdemain, a genuine asset, in that it heralds his arrival in town as clearly as do the animal wagons for a circus.

Prof. Button states that externally the car has undergone some changes. He has removed the tonneau and replaced it with a flat deck to carry his stage properties. Over the front seat he has placed a buggy top, and some time ago the springs were replaced by a set of air cushions. As for the engine parts he says that they are for the most part the original equipment of the car, much of which shows but little wear in spite of its many years of service.

The Cadillac organization has a number of Model A Cadillac cars, one at the factory, and others being used for exhibition purposes by distributors. One of these 20-year-old huskies last year made the 73-mile run in excellent time from Detroit to New York, carrying a message from the mayor of Detroit to the mayor of the larger metropolis, and commemorating the twentieth birthday of the company.

Court Motor Co., Cadillac dealer, 235 S. Brand boulevard.

FORDSON IS MORE THAN POWER PLANT

Over in the Caucasus of Asia Minor the Fordson Tractor is more than a power plant—it is a land redeemer and a life saver.

There in the shadow of Mt. Ararat, famed resting place of Noah's ark, it is the twentieth century missionary to the oldest land in the world and brings the most striking of all contrasts between modern power farming and the primitive methods in vogue for thousands of years.

Introduced in the Caucasus a little more than a year ago by the Near-East Relief, the tractor has revolutionized agriculture and, thanks to it, there is no famine this year.

With the tractor and modern farm machinery the fields, heretofore only scratched with the historic stick and oxen teams, have been plowed deep and with less seed have yielded greater crops than ever before. Hundreds of natives, too, have been released from farm work to enter industrial pursuits.

A recent note from Erivan, Armenia, tells the story of tractor accomplishments in striking figures: "Then American tractors ploughed a thousand acres of land in 11 days," the message said. "To accomplish the same work in the same time would have required 1000 oxen and 500 men."

Under power farming, the crops in the Caucasus have been 50 per cent larger and one-third less seed has been used. Where Armenia only a short time ago, with 80 per cent of its population engaged in agriculture, was only producing one-third of its cereal requirements, it is today producing about one-half with far less men employed in the work.

The Near East Relief is now using eleven Fordson tractors.

With gasoline power, fed by the rich oil fields of Baku on the Caspian sea and with modern machinery, the Caucasus promises to accomplish one of the most interesting agricultural developments in the history of the world.

The Fordson is handled in Glendale by the Jesse E. Smith company of West Colorado.

Unusual protective measures are being taken in the Brea Canyon road to assure safe driving for motorists in wet weather.

Stout fences are being built at the more dangerous turns, especially where the road follows the side of the steep hills and gravel is being placed on the shoulders of each of the turns and inclines to prevent the rain from washing the fine silt over the new cement highway.

In damp weather this silt assumes a quality approaching that of grease and several cars have slid from the road and overturned, on one occasion resulting in a fatality.

The work is being done by the county road gang under the supervision of Road Commissioner Jones and comes as a result of agitation started by the Pomona office of the Automobile Club of Southern California. The auto club will soon have signs posted all along the Brea Canyon road warning motorists of its treachery in wet weather.

THE TROUBLE SHOOTER Shows How to Adjust and Tune up Motor for the Season's Running.

The Clutch—Its Care and Adjustment

There are few parts of an automobile that receives more abuse than the clutch. A large number of motorists, not knowing that they are doing any harm, drive with their foot on the clutch pedal at all times. The result of this is that they get into the habit of slipping the clutch when slowing down, causing the clutch faces to wear rapidly and commence to grab or slip. The clutch is NOT designed to take the place of GEARS. Yet this is exactly what some drivers use the clutch for. NEVER drive with your foot on the clutch pedal, and NEVER slip the clutch when you should change down to a lower gear. Sudden operation of the clutch makes the wheels spin, causes rapid wear on the tires, and puts a heavy strain on the whole transmission system. In wet weather, harsh operation of the clutch will cause the car to skid badly also.

Here is the CORRECT way to use the clutch. In starting along the road, let the engine run JUST A TRIFLE faster than idling speed, then allow the clutch to engage gently and start to move the car. Pause for a second, then let the clutch right in, and the instant the clutch is fully engaged, start to accelerate the engine. NEVER depress the accelerator to speed up the engine UNTIL the clutch IS fully engaged, or you will cause unnecessary slipping and have trouble. NEVER accelerate SUDDENLY at any time, but especially do not do this if the car is moving SLOWLY, or the rear wheels may spin as shown in the illustration, and in any case will throw a very severe strain on the whole transmission system.

As a general thing, when the clutch is given reasonable treatment and care, it will give very little trouble. Trouble in the clutch sometimes does develop, however, and takes one of three forms: it either slips, so preventing the full power of the engine being transmitted to the rear wheels, it grabs too quickly, causing the car to leap forward with a jolt when the clutch is engaged, or it spins, and makes it impossible to change gears silently (unless you are an expert).

If the clutch is of the leather or dry plate type, and it SLIPS, it may be due to the surface of the leather being soaked with oil or grease, or it may be the adjusting screws require a little more tension. If the clutch is slipping because it has oil or grease on it, press it out of engagement and wash the surface of the leather with gasoline. After it has dried off, dress evenly all round the face of the leather or plate with neat-foot oil. Jam the clutch out of engagement and allow the oil to soak in all night. If the clutch still slips after this treatment, increase the tension on the clutch springs slightly, but be sure to give each adjusting screw the SAME NUMBER OF TURNS. Do not experiment too much.

If a leather or dry plate clutch GRABS or CHATTERS when engaged, the leather or asbestos face may be glazed, in which case a dressing with neat-foot oil will soften it and may affect a cure. If this does not remedy the trouble, have the clutch examined by a competent mechanic, as it is more than probable that it requires relining.

If the clutch is of the multiple steel disc variety and it SLIPS, drain out all of the old oil in the clutch case, then pour in about a pint of kerosene and start the engine, and with the gears in neutral, work the clutch pedal in and out. Now drain the case, and refill with about half of pint of VERY THIN oil or a mixture of half kerosene and oil. The clutch as a rule requires very little oil, too much oil is nearly as bad as not enough. Find out from the instruction book, you got with your car what quantity and kind of oil to use. If this information is not available, then pour in half a pint and see how the clutch acts. If this does not cure the slipping, try draining out some of the oil, and replacing with an equal quantity of kerosene. If the clutch STILL slips, then increase the tension of the clutch springs slightly, and replacing with the same number of turns. If this does not cure the trouble, consult a good mechanic, as the above treatment is as far as the average driver can go without getting himself into trouble.

If a clutch of the multiple disc variety GRABS or CHATTERS when engaging, then the clutch plate, are probably too dry. Pour in about a pint of kerosene and work the clutch pedal in and out while the engine is running, then drain and refill with the proper quantity of very thin oil. If you find that it is impossible to change gears silently, take up the floor boards and observe the clutch when you push out the clutch pedal. If the clutch is enclosed in a case, then take off the cover. When you push out the clutch pedal and the engine is running, the clutch should stop spinning in about two seconds. If it continues to spin for some time after the pedal is pushed out, it is possible that the clutch stop or brake is worn and requires to be adjusted closer to the rim of the clutch. In some few makes of clutches, there is no clutch stop fitted, and in that case, you will need to consult the service station of your car to have this fault corrected.

The adjustment of the clutch varies slightly on different cars, so consult the instruction book you got with your car and follow the directions given there.

PERFECT CAR IS THE NEW PAIGE

In a labor saving age we find labor saving devices everywhere, even on the automobile, points out Mr. H. M. Jewett, president of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company. "We have put everything on and into the Paige that will make it a perfect performing creature," says the manufacturer of this product, "and we have gone to the point where we feel that now the Paige has full equipment."

"As a result safety has been brought to its highest stage for we equip with rear view mirrors, combination stop and tail light, double bumpers—front and rear, automatic windshield wiper, sun screen, guard rail in tonneau, large brake surface per pound of automobile weight, and motometer. "We have minimized the labor, adding to the convenience of the owner by installing a connected tire pump, two extra mounted tires, adjustable steering column, combined instruments under one case on dash board, thumb controls, cigar lighter, and Marshall type springs in the upholstery."

The Paige is the national tourists' car, claims Ralph B. Bliss, 306 East Colorado street, local dealer. Several arrangements and construction is largely responsible for this reputation, according to the Paige manager. He cites the curves filling every surface of the human back, supported by Marshall type springs and deep padding.

"Inholstering in the Paige 6-70 is built on the same principle as that used in the overstuffed lounge now found in the average home," says the Paige manager. "It is our belief that when a person sits for hours behind a steering wheel or in the tonneau riding at maximum touring speeds they should be even more comfortably seated than in the living room of the home."

vision of Road Commissioner Jones and comes as a result of agitation started by the Pomona office of the Automobile Club of Southern California. The auto club will soon have signs posted all along the Brea Canyon road warning motorists of its treachery in wet weather.

WORKING OF GAS ENGINE TOLD

The term cycle, as applied to the gas engine, means the series of operations that the engine goes through to bring all parts back to the same relative position that they were in at the beginning. There are four operations, which are constantly repeated, in regular order, so long as the engine is in operation. The first of these operations is the intake stroke during which the air and gasoline mixture is drawn into the cylinder; the second is the compression stroke, during which the mixture is compressed in the combustion chamber; the third stroke is the working stroke during which the piston is pushed violently outward by the burning of the air and gasoline mixture in the cylinder; the fourth stroke is the exhaust stroke during which the burned gases are expelled from the cylinder. These four strokes or operations make up what is known as the four-stroke cycle, or in the vernacular of the gas-engine man, the four cycle.

To comprehend the work being done in each cylinder of the automobile engine, one may compare it to a gun. Imagine an old-fashioned gun, muzzle loader, and you can see that a gas engine works, in its cycle, much the same. In the old gun the powder is poured down the barrel, the intake stroke; then the bullet is rammed down on top of it, the compression stroke; then the cap is snapped which sets the powder on fire and the burning powder pushes the bullet forcibly from the gun, the working stroke; the fourth operation is the swabbing out of the gun barrel and the gun is now to be loaded and fired again. For each shot there are four operations, the same as in the gas-engine cylinder. If two or four men were shooting guns and while one was putting in powder, another was ramming another firing and the fourth swabbing, and they kept this up indefinitely, you would have the same action that is going on in a four-cylinder engine. There is no relation between the cycle and the number of cylinders.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA PAIGE

Built as Beauty Deserves Superb Workmanship—Fine Performance—Long Life

How all your youthful instincts draw you to the Paige 4-passenger Phaeton! The trim lines, with a hint of dash, mark its fine breeding. You will always be proud of it. In sheer performance it will exceed your fondest dreams. Steering ease for the frailest hand. So gentle the Paige clutch that stalling or jerking never occurs.

Restful body positions with low-set seats and ample foot room make comfortable riding. Rear springs more than 5 feet long laugh at rough roads. No thought here of fatigue. Compartments and pockets provide space for traveling accessories—2 lock-equipped "cubby-holes" safely carry valued articles. And for long tours—a folding rack in the rear accommodates heavy luggage.

The Paige 70 H.P. motor performs eagerly at 2 miles an hour or 70, throttle-controlled. Rare, indeed, is your need for gear shifting. Motor life is increased and its youthful vigor retained, by the Paige high-pressure oiling system.

Bodies, too, are soundly built. No body squeaks or rattles mar the performance of your Paige—double strips of patent leather keep metal from touching metal or wood. Substantial finishing—not a piece of imitation leather in your Paige.

For years you can confidently expect the Paige to retain its fine performance, silence, comfort. Paige is the only manufacturer of finest quality cars with a tremendous volume in smaller cars the size and price of the Paige-built Jewett. This enormous volume reduces Paige overhead by hundreds of dollars on each Paige car—your saving when you buy your Paige.

SPARR HEIGHTS GOLF COURSE COMING ON

The work on the Oakmont Country Club at Sparr Heights is progressing rapidly, the grading of the golf course having reached an advanced stage, and the preliminary plans for the erection of the clubhouse building being completed.

This beautiful golf course, comprising one hundred and fifteen acres, promises to be one of the finest eighteen-hole courses in the United States, and great interest in its development is evinced by lovers of the sport.

Oliver Hereford, recently expressed the opinion that golf was an obstacle which man willfully presented between himself and nature that he might not be conscious of any of the material aspects of beauty, but his dictum is certainly belied by the selection made by the Oakmont Country Club of the field for their game. Nowhere in Southern California is it possible to obtain a more beautiful view of green foot hills rising into lofty mountains, of sun-kissed valleys and an enchanting prospect, seen from every part of the terrain, than that visible from the club grounds and the home sites surrounding it.

The clubhouse is to be spacious and elegant, and to have every accommodation for the members of the club, including a grill presided over by a competent chef, ladies' quarters with every comfort, and facilities for indoor and veranda amusements for those who do not feel in the humor for exercise in the field.

A fine swimming pool of mammoth proportions is to be an adjunct of the clubhouse, which is to be built at the southern entrance of Sparr Heights on the west side of the boulevard.

The contract for the building has been let, and the directors accepted a bid for it which was thirty-five hundred dollars above the lowest bid presented, because of the agreement of the contractor to have the building finished within four months, hence the fall tourist season will witness the opening of the club for business, if pleasure such as it affords may be so-called, and it might not be a bad idea to send Mr. Oliver Hereford an invitation, for it is a notable fact that the only adverse critic of golf is the individual who either does not play it, or has never been able to achieve more than nine holes.

The Pittsburg "realtor" will find some 20,000 members of the National Association of Real Estate Boards agreeing with it in its observation that "Everything comes to him who waits—including higher prices for the real estate he intends to buy some day."

A Nice Place on a Warm Day

Here's a Typical Scene in the Alta-Canyada Canyon.

WANDERING CUT CAUSES WONDER

Truth is stranger than fiction, and if one were to say that there actually is such a thing as a magic carpet that can move things from one place to another without any visible means of transit, few people would believe it.

Nevertheless, many things are possible in the press room of a daily paper that are impossible anywhere else. The inviting picture you see above is, as entitled, a typical scene in the Alta-Canyada canyon. Last week, however, either through the agencies of the magic carpet, or a rapid transit service, it had become transferred to publicity for Glenoaks, located some few miles distant from Alta-Canyada, and appeared disguised as a cozy nook in that charming vicinity.

Pictures, like chickens, come home to roost, however, and when managers of Alta-Canyada espied the picture of one of Alta-Canyada's own cozy nooks masquerading under a Glenoaks head, they promptly notified the truant officer, who made a probe of the case and found that in the due course of events transpiring when the real estate section was published, the cut had been made Glenoaks, through a mistake on the part of one of the scribes, and due to the fact that the outlines of the cut itself were rather ambiguous, a slight geographical error in the topography of the real estate section resulted.

The fair reader now sees the picture as it is supposed to be, and let it be said, it shows a scene taken in one of the prettiest canyons in Southern California.

LIMA BEANS TO BE PLANTED LAST

Lima beans, whether the pole or bush varieties, are planted, are the last seeds to put in the open ground, when it is well warmed up. It is not safe to take a chance on very cool weather with the limas in the open, but it pays well to start them in advance in paper pots where they can be protected from chilly nights or days when the temperature takes one of the drops we know we may look for during early spring weather.

Plant two seeds—two beans—eye down and on edge in a three-inch paper pot, and as soon as the nights are past the cool stage tear the paper away from the ball of earth and set them in the hill. Seeds should not be planted in the open until the trees are in full leaf, as no vegetable is so susceptible to cold, particularly chilly nights, as the lima bean.

The start from two or three weeks ahead of the outdoor planting season gives a chance not only for earlier fresh limas but will give the plant a chance to develop a more bountiful crop. The handiest way to handle these early-started limas is to set the paper pots in flats or handy-boxes, setting them outdoors on bright, sunny days and bringing them in when it is cool. A dozen or so pots can be handled with little trouble in this way and a dozen hills of early limas, particularly the pole variety, will mean a good-sized pickings.

In laying out the location for the bush limas, allow for plenty of space. Some gardeners have difficulty with the dwarf limas and have given them up as not worth while because of the poor yield, because they tried to grow them closely planted in rows just as they did string beans. This is all wrong and little can be expected of the limas in the way of yield with this close planting. They need at least 18 inches between hills and two feet will be better. With good soil and ample cultivation they will yield a surprising number of beans as compared with the closely planted patches.

The greater space gives them not only sufficient plant food without too much competition, but permits the plant to develop to its full extent and provide a great number of bearing branches. If you have been disappointed with bush limas, try them again in the warmest spot in the garden with plenty of room.

FISHER TAKES UP NEW WORK
Ernest M. Fisher, new assistant secretary of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, took up his work at Chicago headquarters June 13. Mr. Fisher comes to the association from the Institute for Research in Land Economics and Public Utilities, University of Wisconsin.

IS ACACIA TREE BEST FOR STREET?

It is to be doubted that any tree has been planted more frequently along our California roadways than the acacia in its different varieties.

By the rules of logic one would, therefore, deduct that the acacia fills the needs of such use and possesses the necessary characteristics for satisfactory roadside planting.

On the contrary, although it may appear as an indictment against the judgment of many tree planters, the best of acacias will but poorly stand the tests demanded of street trees for Southern California.

It is unnecessary to consider more than the species of this tree most commonly seen along our highways, in our consideration of whether or not the above statement is sound.

Perhaps Acacia baileyana is most unanimously admired because of its graceful, fernlike foliage and wonderful profusion of bloom in very early spring.

It is often advocated and used for street planting.

This tree is normally very dense and compact in habit, branching low to the ground and spreading widely, characteristics which are unpleasant to passers-by.

Its wood is brittle, continuously breaking and splitting, it produces prodigious amounts of litter in the way of leaves and seed pods, and is short-lived.

It is better in clumps than along streets.

Acacias dealbata and molleisima are two other, very similar, species of frequent use for roadsides.

These both have the desirable habit of growing upright and spreading above the heads of travelers.

They are both of very brittle wood, however, breaking in the wind in a way that is both a menace and nuisance.

They have a gray, dusty appearance during most of the year and drop profuse litter.

They tend to grow unevenly. They soon take on the appearance of decadent old age, and, in the opinion of the writer, are seldom attractive as an avenue tree.

The blackwood acacia, A. melanoxylon, probably comes the nearest of any to being a satisfactory tree for roadside use.

When grown under optimum conditions it develops into a beautiful tree of tall and upright habit, compact and yet widely spreading, and with a depth of dark green foliage that is very pleasing.

It is generally hardy but will not stand the drought of our hot summers, in a light soil, without artificial care.

PAINTING HINTS FOR HOME OWNER

(Con. from page 1 Realty Section)

lem requires a wall that has the uneven, irregular surface, the character of a roughly executed, hand worked plaster.

The sort of rough walls we associate with early English and Norman cottages will serve as examples.

When it is not possible to obtain the sort of wall desired by manipulating the plaster itself, as in remodeling or redecorating, the same result may be had by a skilled painter. There are numerous ways of accomplishing it.

A preparation consisting principally of whitening plaster paris and glue, mixed with water to a thick putty-like substance, can be spread over a wall in a heavy coat, then brushed or worked by hand until the desired degree of roughness is produced.

Another formula, the principal ingredients of which are whitening, lead and glue, mixed with oil and turpentine, can be similarly manipulated.

After treating a wall with such preparations it can be finished by painting, then glazing with a slightly contrasting tone and wiping off to emphasize the roughness of the surface.

When only a slight degree of roughness is required, the rough stuff can be applied with a coarse brush and worked into a variety of patterns.

Dragging it on in vertical and horizontal strokes will suggest the texture of a coarse fabric.

Laying the preparation on in lumps and then troweling over with a stick will suggest the texture of travertine or other stone.

But the possibilities can only be suggested here.

As in the case with the many ways of stippling a wall, the results obtained will depend primarily on the painter's skill and his sense of decorative values.

The prepared flat wall oil paints and standard makes of lead and oil color are sufficiently permanent for all practical purposes. In interior work, which does not imply, however, that all colors ground in oil will not fade or change under strong sunlight.

The average room does not receive such a flood of light as to make that factor an important consideration.

In exterior painting care must be exercised in selecting colors which are permanent.

In general it will be found that strong, bright, intense colors will fade more rapidly than will more subdued, neutral tones.

Soft yellows, browns, tans, buffs, ivory tones, warm grays and soft blues and greens are more permanent than are bright cold greens or blues or sharper, clearer tones of red and yellow.

It is not possible to classify exactly all non-fading tinting colors colors mixed with lead and oil in obtaining the right tone—as much depends on the brands used.

Those that seem to be reliable on safety are raw sienna, burnt sienna, raw and burnt umber, French ochre, Venetian and Tuscan reds and lamp black.

Chrome yellow, chrome green and Prussian blue can be classified as fairly permanent.

They are indispensable in producing certain very usable shades, and are employed frequently, even though known to fade somewhat under sunlight.

For painting exterior woodwork three coats are generally specified. The first, or priming coat of white lead and raw linseed oil is applied, the wood is cleaned, thoroughly dried and all knots and resinous spots have been shellacked.

After priming all cracks, open joints and nail holes are smoothly filled up with pure linseed oil white lead putty.

After the putty has dried the second and third coats of the color selected are applied, ample time being allowed for drying between succeeding coats.

The second coat is thinned usually with equal proportions of oil and turpentine.

The last coat is mixed with oil, only a small proportion of turpentine being used, particularly if a high gloss surface is desired.

If a prepared mixed paint is used the last coat is applied usually as it comes from the can.

In repainting two coats will often suffice. If the paint has scaled or peeled badly it is essential to remove carefully such portions, to burn them off with a painter's torch before repainting.

Frequently such scaly parts can be removed by scrubbing with a stiff wire brush.

It is not economy to paint over old surfaces showing signs of peeling without that preparatory treatment.

Before painting interior woodwork all surfaces must be cleaned carefully, sanded smooth and knot holes and resinous spots shellacked.

After wood is primed and knot holes and open joints are shellacked the second coat is applied as described for exterior painting of woodwork.

For ordinary painting a third coat will answer often as a finish coat.

It may be given a flat surface by omitting oil from the mixture and thinning the paint only with turpentine.

If an egg shell gloss is desired, the last coat can be mixed with oil and turpentine in the proportion of one-quarter gallon of oil to a gallon of turpentine.

When enamel surface is requisite satisfactory results can be obtained by applying a coat of high grade enamel paint over two coats of lead and oil color.

Three coats of paint, as a ground for the enamel, will produce superior result, as will application of two or more coats of enamel.

DEED GIVES CLUB MEMBERSHIP CARD

Rainbow Valley Offers Real Value To Early Buyers

A deed that carries with it rights entitling the owner to full privileges as a member of the community club is given with each sale of property at Rainbow Valley, the picturesque new community-in-the-making, which has attracted wide attention since the opening of sales in the subdivision, which includes 200 acres.

No longer will the small home owner be forced to satisfy his longing for the great open spaces and the pleasures of the summer resort by gazing at the color plate folders at the railroad station. Here, actually a part of his possessions, he will have everything that heart could desire for recreation, amusement, and pleasure.

The community building will contain three units, artistically arranged and furnished appropriately for club purposes. One of these will be the 'ladies' unit. With lounging room, dining room, and beauty parlors tastefully furnished, this unit will be especially attractive one for women and children. Billiard parlors, card rooms, and smoking rooms will feature the gentlemen's unit.

A roof garden dance pavilion, canopy covered, will be one of the attractions of the main unit. On the ground floor also will be a main dance floor, and a balcony of generous proportions will be utilized for serving of refreshments.

Individual kitchen nooks, privileges of which are open to each club member, will provide a means for private parties to prepare their own meals. This is an innovation in the community club house and one that is destined to meet with the hearty approval of all club members.

The grounds of the community center comprise seven and one-half acres. Here will be located a fine plunge filled with cold clear mountain water, surrounded with sands that are a close counterpart of the beaches, and the similarity will be emphasized by the presence of numerous bright canvass umbrellas.

Four tennis courts, baseball grounds, handball courts, croquet, horse shoe grounds, and in fact practically every outdoor activity included in the plans. All modern playground equipment will be in the grounds reserved for the children.

Although all of these features are to be included, there will be no membership dues. According to Captain Stradling work is to commence on the club house in earnest at a date in the near future, as the contract has already been laid.

In the meantime hundreds of people are being shown the attractive lots available. The local office is located at the corner of Colorado and Brand boulevard, where further information may be secured.

POLITICS MAKES MANY STRANGE ASSOCIATES

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 30.—By mail—Politics, which make strange, strange bedfellows, has nothing on the work of handling refugees in Constantinople.

It brought together such contrasts as the Russian Society for Workless Pedagogues, the United States navy and the Turkish Red Crescent; the League of Nations and many others.

When the American Relief Administration took hold of the work here last summer just as funds of the other organizations were giving out, it found that 84 Russian societies were trying to help as much as they could—the largest and the most effective of these was the Russian Union of Zemstvo's and the smallest was the Society of Workless Pedagogues. Another was the Russian Society of Hunters and Fishers. Under the direction of Arthur C. Ringland, chief of the American Relief Administration here the Russian effort was consolidated in one committee elected by the entire 84 societies.

Uncle Sam's navy contributed warehouse space and frequently transported food and personnel on the destroyers. The Standard Oil company in an emergency sent in hundreds of this to be used as coal-burners for hot food cooked at central kitchens and transferred hastily to feeding stations. The Turkish Red Crescent loaned kitchen equipment, the American Red Cross gave motor trucks, the League of Nations contributed rail fare for all refugees who were being sent from Constantinople to other countries and the American Relief Administration provided the rail fare for all of the totally dependent Russian refugees in Constantinople.

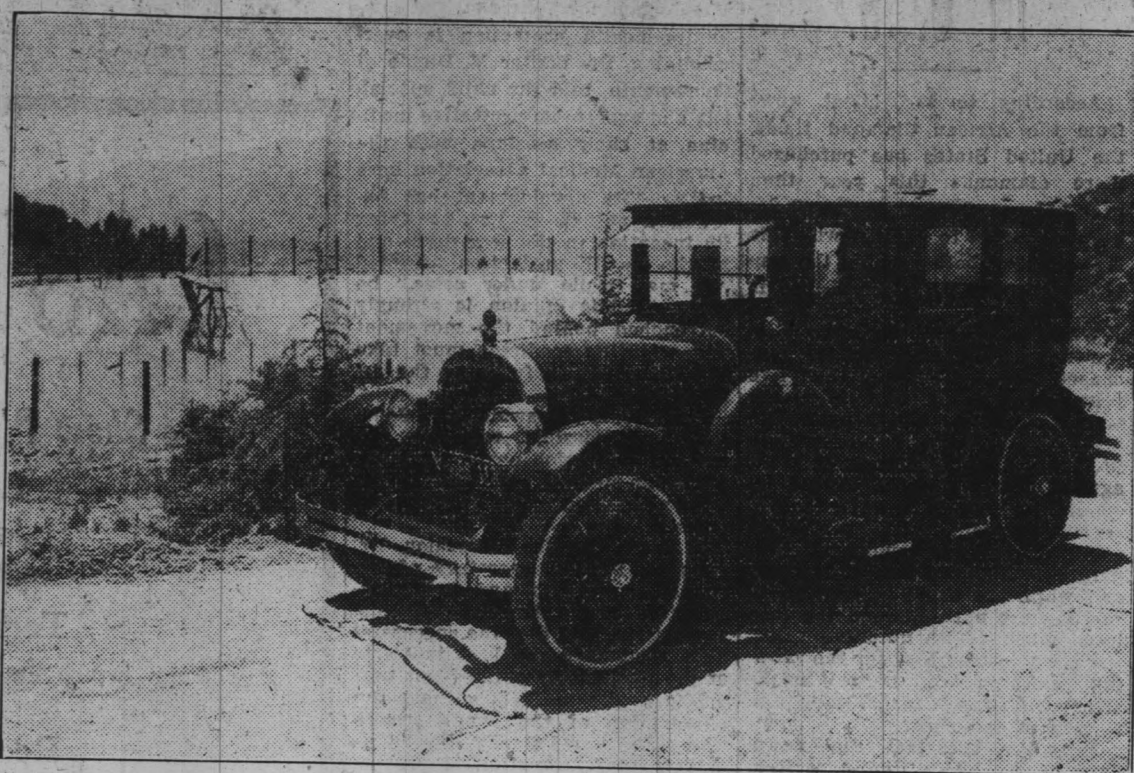

The work is now practically completed, only 350 sick persons being fed.

ADVOCATES LESS FOOD FOR MEN OF RIVER YEARS

[By Associated Press]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Two meals a day as a regular diet for men over middle age, especially those whose occupations do not require great physical exertion, would avoid disorders of the stomach, kidneys and heart, Dr. C. D. Sprink, of Denver, told the American Medical association here today.

THE NEW MILLION AND A HALF DOLLAR RESERVOIR JUST COMPLETED AT ALTA-CANYADA

With the setting ideal for the highest class of homes, shrubs, trees, driveways, climatic conditions unsurpassed for their healthfulness, Alta-Canyada property is rapidly being usurped by the anxious buyer.

In addition to the other attractions, the abundant and permanent supply of cool, pure mountain water for drinking and irrigation furnishes an invaluable point in favor of this property. The new reservoir, one of the largest to be found on private property in California, has just been completed at a cost of $1,500,000. This is of practically indestructible cement, so constructed that there are expansion joints in the sides so that differences in temperature will not result in damage to the concrete.

All of these features are serving to attract buyers of homes to Alta-Canyada, buyers who appreciate the right to live in a chosen territory, where the canyon below is always an alluring playground, and where the city is of easy access.

Some of the recent buyers at Alta-Canyada include such people as J. B. Jamieson of Boston, Massachusetts, president of the Jamieson Cotton Mills, who plans to erect a $80,000 home on his property; Dr. R. C. Lane of Los Angeles, who has purchased 8 acres, with a view to erecting a palatial home; John F. Martin, capitalist and hotel man, who will erect a $50,000 home on the two acres he has purchased, and Oliver O. Clark of Glendale, who plans a $25,000 residence.

USILTON & BENNER HAVE BUSY WEEK

Usilton & Benner, the real estate dealers, located at 201 North Brand, have not allowed the coming of summer to slacken their efforts to move property for their many customers. Sales totalling more than $60,000 have been made since the past week, and the outlook for a busy July is particularly good.

PAINT AID TO SANITATION

Perhaps one may look upon the annual clean up and paint up campaign as a selling idea of the originators.

However, regardless of any advertising that may be concealed in the idea of using paint to clean up, the health department is very emphatic in recording the use of paint to help keep the premises sanitary, emphasizing this point, any one may carry out this experiment.

A small wooden box that can be entirely enclosed is painted inside with an ordinary linseed oil paint. If mold or fungus, such as will appear on gelatine, is placed in the box, closed tightly, fungus or bacteria will not multiply under this condition.

It is a fact that paint fumes, which are caused by the oxidation of varnishes and oils emit formaldehyde and other antiseptics.

It is true that freshly painted interiors will eliminate vermin.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 30.—Salt Lake City was awarded the 1924 convention of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War at the annual convention here. The meeting date was set for June 23 to 28.

ONLY SIX LOTS ARE LEFT IN BIG TRACT

E. R. Ripley Tells of Activity In Subdivision

In Glendale along beautiful Kenneth Road where the elite of California are coming by the hundreds to build their homes, as fast as real estate brokers prepare the way by opening subdivisions, home sites are becoming more and more scarce, as the buyers become more and more numerous.

The reports coming from E. R. Ripley, owner of a choice subdivision at Kenneth Road and Pacific avenue, show that only six lots are left in the tract which has been sold from his office, 200 West Broadway. These, he announces, are to be disposed of in a clean-up value sale beginning today.

The property is located among some of the finest homes to be seen in Glendale, with contracts under way for further construction that will greatly swell the records of building in Glendale. Situated so that they command a splendid panoramic view of the surrounding country, inviting to the most fastidious.

"These are also good investment propositions," announced Mr. Ripley, "for the northwest section of Glendale will always fill a popular demand."

HUMANITY AIM IS THE HOME

President Harding's emphasis on the home as the purpose of all human organization, in his address at the recent Shrine convention in Washington, will be ammunition to the Own Your Home movement, originated back in antebellum days by the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

"There home is at last not merely the center but truly the aim, the object and the purpose of all human organization," Mr. Harding said in speaking of the movement for better homes as a movement for better America.

OFFICE RENT BY THE HOUR

High pressure modern real estate service is illustrated in the up-to-the-minute office rent system reported to the National Association of Real Estate Boards from the Seattle, Offices for rent by the hour, or if the client prefers, by the week, the month, or the year. The development for the new degree of reduction of overhead with which a Seattle firm is credited, care for mail and telephone calls, ice, taking care of appointments, and all the other features appertaining to a first-class office, go with the short-term lease arrangement. The man whose business takes him frequently out of town, and the out-of-town business requiring a branch office temporarily while a decision to establish a permanent office is pending, are the clients for whom the novel service is designed.

Fortune knocks once at every man's door, but misfortune camps on his front step.

CASTLE HEIGHTS IS SCENE OF ACTIVITY

Activity is noticeable at Castle Heights, the subdivision now being offered by Hamlin & Hepburn, of 203 West Broadway. This tract was recently opened, and has attracted many home-seekers to its boundaries.

Lots here offer a beautiful view of Eagle Rock and the surrounding territory, extending to Lankershim, and including the hills of Griffith Park as a background. Large lots provide for the kind of home preferred by the discriminating home-seeker, and suitable restrictions are placed upon the property to insure the character of the homes to be built there.

This tract is strictly Glendale. It was named by a resident of Glendale, Castle Heights having been chosen by the sub-dividers, after going through a long list of suggestions made when the naming contest was started. It is within the city limits of Glendale, and is being bought largely by Glendale people.

To reach Castle Heights follow San Bernardino road or Kenneth road to Grand View. Then go on to Brand's Castle, and watch for the sign of the Hamlin & Hepburn firm.

FAMOUS SLAVE STATION OF INDIANA DESTROYED

PETERSBURG, Ind., June 30.—Another station of one of the most famous institutions that ever reached into Indiana—the underground railroad for running slaves into the northern states—has passed. Fire recently destroyed the landmark.

The house, located in this vicinity, caught fire because of a defective flue. It originally was owned by John Posey, father of Frank B. Posey, former representative in congress, and was the home of the Posey family in the days preceding the Civil war. Many escaped slaves were hidden in its secret cellar and tunnel and assisted in getting to Canada, according to old-time residents.

The residence stood on a high bluff along White river, commanding a view of the surrounding country for many miles. It contained secret closets, secret cellars and in the war period a secret tunnel lead to the river.

REALTOR JOINS ZONING COMMISSION

L. F. Eppich, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, has been appointed a member of the building zoning commission for Denver, just created by the city council. The vote of Denver at the May election authorized the council to create such a commission and to zone the city. The new commission will attend the Cleveland convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards to take part in the discussion on zoning.

KELSEY HEADS THE NURSERY ASSOCIATION

[By Associated Press] CHICAGO, June 30.—Harlan P. Kelsey, of Salem, Mass., today was elected president of the American Association of Nurserymen, which chose Kansas City, Mo., for the 1924 convention.

George Marshall, Arlington, Neb., was elected vice-president and F. A. Wiggins, Toppish, Wash., a member of the executive committee.

STANDARD FORMS STABILIZE BUSINESS

Use of standard forms for real estate transactions, now under discussion for national adoption by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and already in effect for almost a year in California, has definitely resulted in stabilization of the realty business in the California territory, according to Edwin T. Keiser, California real estate commissioner.

"I think that the statewide use of the standard forms, adopted by the state real estate association last summer and now coming into general service, has done much to stabilize the realty business," Mr. Keiser states. "More of these various forms used by realty dealers should be standardized. The real estate business is fundamental. It should be carried on in a very intelligent manner."

A higher ethical note than formerly is being struck in the vast majority of the real estate transactions, the commissioner believes. More real estate agents than formerly are realizing the requirements of their highly professional calling. The effect of the license system, the organization of real estate boards, and the general acquaintance which the public is being given through board organization with the ethical standards of responsible real estate men, are factors to which the commissioner attributes the advance noted in practical real estate ethics.

Says Labor Bureau Puts Heavy Load on British Tax Payers

[By Associated Press]

LONDON, June 30.—The international labor bureau of the League of Nations is not adverse to taking on a few capitalist ideas in the matter of salaries and expenses. In a correspondence of the Daily Mail in an article in which the bureau comes in for criticism, he declares that the bureau costs the League of Nations 349,768 pounds, which is about one-third of the league's revenue.

The offices of the bureau at Geneva are described as situated in a large private school building near the city. The staff of the bureau is composed of some 353 persons, 80 of whom are British subjects. Fifty-three of these are earning from 800 to 3,600 pounds a year, and their salaries are free from anything that resembles an income tax.

Further, these employees are allowed a six weeks' holiday every year, and their expenses paid to their place of residence. The cost of sending their families to Geneva also is met by the league, as well as special motor bus transportation to and from the city to the offices, and the midday meal.

Trains, which were provided at an annual cost of 160 pounds, are no longer of the free list. This, and a reduction in the cost of office supplies and the expenses of a courier between Geneva and Paris are the work of an economy expert sent recently by the British government to investigate the operating costs of the bureau.

The annual salaries range from 200 pounds a year for office boys and 400 pounds for stenographers, to 3,600 pounds, the remuneration paid to the director, Albert Thomas, the former French socialist minister.

The correspondent of the Daily Mail has figured out that the British taxpayers donate 30,000 pounds every year to this bureau, whose work is described as being "the recommendation to more backward states of labor legislation calculated to bring them into line with the

CHICKS WITH WEAK LEGS NEED NOT BE KILLED

BY SETH W. SHOEMAKER

Director, the School of Agriculture, International Correspondence Schools, Scranton, Pa.

No matter from what cause, if poultry of any kind are unable to stand on their feet the ailment is called leg weakness. This leg weakness is not rheumatism, although it may be a sign of rheumatism. It is not paralysis, although it may be a symptom of paralysis. Neither is it intestinal disease nor due to egg trouble, although it may be a manifestation of either of these disturbances.

If the fowls are valuable do not be in a hurry to kill them if they seem to be suffering from leg weakness. They will often recover if property treated. This trouble is probably more frequently noticed in the heavier breeds than in the lighter ones, but is by no means confined to any one breed. Therefore it is not always advisable to discard the breed you may handle on the assumption that you can secure another breed that will not be similarly affected.

BROODER CONDITIONS

If young chicks are affected with leg weakness, brooder conditions are probably at fault. There may be too high temperature, or not enough moisture, or a combination of both, making a hot, dry atmosphere. A frequent cause during the brooder stage is too long a stay on board floors. Among half-grown chicks, long-legged cockerels are more liable to be affected than the shorter-legged fowls. Here the trouble is largely nutritional. On account of the rapid growth of the fowl it is unable to appropriate sufficient bone-making material from its food. Sometimes the food is deficient. It may contain too much fat-forming food and not enough bone-making materials.

Leg weakness is rare in full-grown fowls. Occasionally, however, specimens of the heavier breeds may become so heavy, through forced feeding, that their legs will not support their bodies. When a chick of a fowl, without any evidence of injury or disease of the legs, manifests untidiness or lameness in walking, staggers on attempting to rise, or is unable to rise to its feet and rests with its breast on the ground, it is customary to say that the fowl has leg weakness.

REMOVE THE CAUSE

To treat leg weakness properly, the cause should first be removed. The "climate" of the brooder should be changed, and it has been suggested where the heat has been too dry, and particularly if the fault has been bottom heat, that the chicks be permitted to scratch a little moist green grass or litter. Growing chicks suffering from leg weakness should be given Epsom salts, room to run, plenty of fresh air, vegetables and green food, lean meat, bone meal and green cut bone. Mash, especially wet mash, fat meats, and condiments or stimulants of any kind should be avoided. Bicarbonate of soda, phosphate of lime, and such salts have been recommended, but in most cases it will be found that will prove sufficient.

practices of western countries, and of accumulating and furnishing up on demand authoritative information about labor conditions all over the globe."

Are you finding what you came to California to ENJOY?

You came for the flowers—the sunshine and the climate—for the trees and the mountains—and the breath of the Ocean—
You came to live with the great out-of-doors!

DON'T lose the fulfillment of these dreams! Don't allow custom to drift you into the side streets of the city—when your whole being urges you to answer the call of the healthful outdoors. For in La Canada Hills—the newest Frank Meline Company subdivision—the charm of the outdoors is complete, permanently endowed with every homeseite. Yet close to Los Angeles and your business. You sacrifice no modern convenience.

What a setting these hills are in! Right in the heart of the cool La Canada Valley—just overlooking Montrose. Rugged little hills they are, yet green and inviting. Many are thick with oaks and sycamores. There are no barren expanses as in most hill tracts.

It is a high-class, beautiful place to live, where every home will be different and distinctive. Restrictions of $5000 to $10,000 naturally guarantee a high order of neighbors.

This is one of the very few subdivisions offered in this district where all city utilities have been included in the price—or even available so you could get them yourself.

The price you pay for your La Canada Hills homeseite includes water, gas, electricity and hard-surfaced streets. You can start building at once. It's just two blocks to the Montrose business center and the carline. Servants will stay with you, here.

La Canada Hills is destined to be one of the popular home places in Southern California. Come out and see for yourself.

ACACIA HILLS DEVELOPER, OPTIMIST

"When is the dull season in Southern California," a man asked Ferd Goodfellow the other day. Mr. Goodfellow is the developer of the Acacia Heights tract, and manager of its sales force. He looked up from a mass of blue prints which showed the fine roads that are to be constructed upon the tract and the location, forty feet apart, along them of the beautiful yellow flowering acacia trees, and smilingly replied: "Friend, I will answer you somewhat in the way the famous Kentuckian answered a man who asked him about the good and bad whisky of the region. 'Some whisky is better than some other,' said he, 'but, and he stirred the ice in his julep glass reflectively, 'but there is no bad whisky,' which conclusion we all hold to be a horrible example of depravity now. Well, some seasons are better than other seasons for business here in Southern California, but so far as I know, what the easterner means by dull seasons we know nothing about."

"Why, man, there were forty-six new industries established in Los Angeles last week, and more are in prospect. The campaign to enlighten the east about the summer climate of California is bearing abundant fruit. They are leaving sweltering Chicago and New York by the thousands and seeking this coast, for to tell the truth the east coast offers them little relief from the climatic conditions of the mid-Atlantic and eastern states, and when they get here they realize that the advertisement about this climate is truthful."

"Forty per cent of the automobile tourists are looking about them for locations of a permanent nature, and when they come to Acacia Hills, see the view from the homesites we are offering and see the prices at which they may acquire them, they one and all express astonishment."

"One of them told me the other day that lots in his town of forty thousand people, a hundred miles from Chicago, where the winters are unbearable and the summer heat stifling were twice as high as these, and they had only three basic industries in the town, not one of which was as important as those of Glendale, while the snow in winter and the heat in summer makes the lot of the suburban business man that of the weary per-

EASY TO BUILD HOME, SAYS BOARD

Invitation to member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards to stop off at Columbus, Ohio, on their convention trip to see for themselves how easily a real estate board may acquire a home of its own comes from the Columbus real estate board. The Columbus board, the second board in the membership of the association to build its home, is erecting a two-story structure, with an auditorium to seat 350 people. The building, the corner stone of which was laid June 12, represents an investment of $110,000.

Actual commuter, who is at all times at the mercy of the climate. "Our own folks here in Southern California have the vacation habit, but when they are traveling to the mountains or beaches, they have their attention upon real estate opportunities at the same time. Many of them make their choice of a home site, as we have found, at such occasions, for they realize that when they have a home on these hills they can get cool breezes, rest and quiet without leaving their home comforts to sojourn in a camp in the mountains or seeking the crowded quarters afforded by most of the beaches. "If climate and view were all we had to offer here, we should not expect the interest that is being developed in our property. The average man wants a good climate and an inspiring view, but transcendental though he may be, he cannot live upon them, but must have some more substantial diet. There is no place in the whole civilized world which offers to ambitious and aspiring men the opportunity that they may find here in Southern California. There is no line of human activity that may not be successfully engaged in here, and with profit, by the man who is intelligent and know what they want to do and how to do it. "First of all a comfortable home is a prime necessity, and those who seek to establish themselves in a home are the men and women who count for something. When our homesites here may be purchased for as low as one thousand dollars, on easy terms, and eighty per cent of the lots range from that price up to two thousand, with suitable building restrictions, the best of street improvements, including cement paving, they commend themselves as well on account of price as location, and this view here is as good as the best anywhere, while not even the millionaire subdivisions have the accessibility to the city that our lots have."

VITALITY NEEDED IN HATCHING EGGS

Vitality is a prime essential in eggs for hatching. Unless the vitality is good the eggs may not produce chicks, or the chicks hatched may be weak and of little value.

It is not generally safe to rely on the vitality of eggs more than four weeks old, and yet eggs three months old have been known to mature. Usually the eggs should be as fresh as possible when they are set.

If eggs have to be kept for some time before they are set, much of the success of the hatching will depend on the way they are taken care of. Eggs kept for hatching should be moved or turned about each day. It is usually considered best to keep the small end of the egg pointed down. Cared for in this way, eggs have been very satisfactorily kept for fourteen days and sometimes longer.

When the eggs are turned about each day the yolk retains its natural position near the center of the egg, but if it is left unturned for any length of time the yolk settles to one side, and the chances are that such an egg will not hatch. Eggs for hatching should be kept cool and at a uniform temperature. Fifty-five degrees Fahrenheit is usually considered the best temperature. Eggs exposed to a higher temperature are liable to start to develop prematurely and may spoil. Eggs that are exposed for any length of time to a temperature of forty degrees Fahrenheit usually have their vitality impaired. Eggs exposed to this temperature for any length of time during cold weather will seldom hatch.

Experienced poultrymen insist upon the greatest possible vitality in the eggs. Even though an egg may be fertile, it is not necessary hatchable. To be capable of producing a chick an egg must not only contain the living germ but must have sufficient vitality to enable the chick to grow to maturity. Unnatural environment is usually the cause of lack of vitality in eggs. The death of chicks in the shell may occur at any stage of incubation, either from natural cause or from unnatural cause. Lack of knowledge of how to control the processes of nature in this matter is responsible for most of the losses.

Fully 98 per cent more men would reach the top if they could reach it by sliding.

NEED ICE MORE THAN DIAMONDS IN U. S.

According to the latest news from the African diamond fields, the United States has purchased more diamonds this year than ever before. Several reasons have been advanced to explain why this is true; but whether or not the condition has any real significance is a question.

What is of real importance is the news that more ice is purchased per capita today than five years ago. This fact is worth more than a passing thought. The use of ice as a food preservative is one of the best precautions against many diseases caused by spoiled or contaminated food. Scientists explain that perishable foods deteriorate rapidly at temperatures higher than 50 degrees; and while the usual indications of spoiling are not apparent, the food loses much of its nutritive value. Pure, wholesome food for the growing children of today means strong, healthy, capable men and women of tomorrow.

Moreover, the fact that nowadays nearly every family realizes the necessity of using ice the year 'round, is more indicative of a greater general prosperity and better living conditions than the fact that a few millionaires have purchased diamonds. And while the owners of African diamond fields are to be congratulated on a bumper year, the various civic organizations, ice producers' associations and housewives' leagues, which help to educate the public to use ice, are to be congratulated still more.

AIRPLANE TRIP TO ARTIC POSTPONED UNTIL AUGUST

[By Associated Press] DETROIT, June 30.—The aerial Arctic hunting trip which a group of New York and Detroit men planned to make in a seaplane some time this month has been postponed until August. The postponement was decided upon because of the number of large icebergs reported in the north regions by the Mount-Real geodetic survey.

The seaplane Polar Bear, in which the flight is to be made, is nearly completed and gasoline supplies already have been sent along the route to be followed.

Physicians Urged To Lead Move For Health Campaign

[By Associated Press] SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—The demand for individual and community health protection is overwhelming, Dr. Walter M. Dickie of Sacramento, told the child specialists and experts on protective medicine at their sessions with the American medical association here today. "Its development has followed a natural course, receiving its inception in the war draft and in the health protection afforded our men while under arms," he said. "Public opinion is strongly entrenched behind the movement and scientific medicine must take the leadership in fulfilling the demand."

Dr. Henry Roswell, of Sanatorium, Mississippi, told how the medical profession could cooperate with non-medical agencies in the prevention and control of tuberculosis.

In continuing the discussion, Dr. John M. Dodson, secretary of the council on health and public instruction of the American Medical Association, said that the successful plan must seek the best interests of the public. He pointed out that public health work is without the cooperation of the general practitioner and urged family physicians to give more attention to preventive medicine.

The child specialists and experts considered methods of lowering the mortality of infants in this country. Special emphasis was laid by Arthur B. Spalding, of San Francisco, on the relation of venereal disease and other infections of the mother to deaths in infancy. It was pointed out that proper care of the mother before the child is born will prevent many of these deaths.

Dr. John A. Foote, of Washington, D. C., stated his belief that statistics give only an approximate idea of the influence which birth injuries and hemorrhagic diseases have upon infant death, and urged more careful examination of the bodies of infants dying from such causes in order to determine methods of prevention. Only with a knowledge of the cause can prevention be scientifically applied, he said.

ARREST IS MERE DETAIL SAN FRANCISCO, June 30 (U. P.).—Something new to forget! Gee Song, Oakland Chinaman, when he appeared before Federal Judge Partridge, said he had forgotten all about the fact he was arrested on March 4. He didn't say whether it was because he was in the habit of being arrested—or that it was a mere trifle in life.

CIVIC CENTER PLANS WIN

Development of large plans for civic centers, a phase of city planning in which constituent bodies of the National Association of Real Estate Boards have had an important part, has been forwarded in Denver and Los Angeles in recent municipal elections. Pasadena and San Francisco are among the cities which are developing plans for civic centers comparable with the wonderful municipal plan being worked out in Springfield, Mass.

The Buffalo, N. Y., Real Estate Board has recently given its services to the city in the appraisal of the lands to be acquired by Buffalo for its civic center.

LONDON BALL GAME

[By Associated Press] LONDON, June 30.—The first baseball game of the season in London attracted a crowd of 3,000. It was a close game, or "match," as the British papers called it, the team of American students at Oxford losing, 5 to 4, to the American Legion team of London.

A Welcome Visitor Every Saturday

—that's what the Glendale Merchants' Monday Shopping News is to a great many people—they find in it, conveniently grouped, the special offerings of a great many different lines of business covering almost every need for home or personal use.

Instead of "Blue Monday" or "Wash Day," Monday has come to be Glendale's great shopping day, when it is considered quite the proper thing to spend most of the day about the shops, filling needs for the week wherever possible, and anticipating needs for the future.

So far as we know, everyone has been pleased with the values and has found the advertising truthful. Folks, if you have any grievance, criticisms or suggestions for Shopping News, don't hesitate to let us hear from you. Every one of us is striving to give you service and values that will bring you down town every Monday just as regular as clockwork.

REFEREE COFFIN IS MAN OF THE HOUR IN N. Y.

To the accompaniment of a bewildering, continuous succession of brokerage houses being forced into bankruptcy, prison terms being handed out to heads of confessed bucket shops, and federal state and county officials turning the pitiless glare of publicity through merciless investigations into the fraudulent methods and practices by which the heartless band of bucketeers and confidence men operating under the guise of stock brokers have robbed thousands of speculative investors all over the country of millions of dollars, Wall Street is undergoing a financial housecleaning such as this world-famed financial center has never experienced before.

The New York Stock Exchange, Consolidated Exchange and Curb Market are feverishly endeavoring to set their houses in order. For example, William S. Silkworth has resigned as president of the Consolidated Exchange effective June 28. In the meantime the men "on change" are fearfully guessing which will be the next firm of brokers to go to the wall.

Then man who pried the lid off this seething cauldron of thievery, chicanery, scandal and stench of contemptible dishonesty was Harold P. Coffin, a New York city referee in bankruptcy for the Southern District Federal court, with offices at 217 Broadway. A zealous public official and the strong right arm of the federal court on whom is ordinarily imposed the task of straightening out the million and details of hundreds of bankruptcy cases sent to him by federal judges.

Though inconspicuous in public life, and harassed with an overburdened docket of bankruptcy cases, Referee Coffin knew his duty when he saw it and roughed it through to a successful conclusion. Referee Coffin is the honest and alert public official who probed so deep into the affairs of the bankrupt stock brokerage house of E. M. Fuller & Company, that it ultimately brought to E. M. Fuller and W. Frank McGee prison sentences in the court of general sessions of New York county June 19th.

Behind all the threatened prosecutions in state and federal courts of the bucketeers, caught in the bankruptcy vortex, stands an order of not more than fifty words issued by Referee Coffin on April 10, of this year in the Fuller case. This order directed the receiver of this bankrupt concern to turn over all books and records to the trustee without reservation. In effect, the order made available to J. H. Benton, district attorney of New York county, the records of Fuller's bucketing.

It was during the third trial of Fuller for bucketing that Referee Coffin handed down his now famous order, the dynamic that exposed the infamous workings of a despicable band of brainy thieves. The trial was adjourned during the legal fight made by Fuller's counsel, an astute criminal lawyer, against the referee's decision. If Fuller's counsel lost, it meant that all of the records and books could be used to establish proof of the bucketing charges. If he won out, this crafty lawyer felt sure that he could get another mistrial and eventually beat the criminal proceedings. The battle was intensely watched by the legal fraternity throughout the country, for if Referee Coffin's firm and determined effort to see justice done by his application of his order was sustained, a precedent would be established powerful enough to put bucketeers behind prison bars and wipe out an organized crew of bucketshop brigands.

The desperate battle of Fuller to keep the records of his brokerage firm from the prosecutor's best understood when it is recalled that he and his partner, McGee, went to Ludlow street jail on contempt of court charges rather than return the records and papers to the trustee as ordered by the United States court.

In the meantime the United States supreme court reviewed

Fathers Beat Vassar Daughters on Diamond; Girl Pitcher, and Thrilling Slide to Third

The Vassar Fathers battled valiantly and won by the football score of 22 to 16. The game was a feature of commencement week at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Miss Harriet Jackson of Cambridge, Mass., who did the twirling for the Daughters, is shown above. She declares she would have won her game if her support hadn't been so ragged. The other photograph was made while Miss Leeta McWilliams of Buffalo, N. Y., was making a classic slide into third. All the girls were members of the graduating class.

REFEREE COFFIN'S ORDER AND CHIEF JUSTICE WILLIAM H. TAFT ON APRIL 30, HANDED DOWN A DECISION, WRITTEN BY HIMSELF SUSTAINING THIS COURAGEOUS AND HIGHMINDED REFEREE.

After the decision by Chief Justice Taft, the defense of Fuller and McGee quickly collapsed and they pleaded guilty. They "took their medicine" in the shape of a Sing Sing prison term of not less than 15 months nor more than 2 years.

Encouraged by the guilty pleas entered by Fuller and McGee, Referee Coffin is now endeavoring to speed up the investigations in the Raskay and Raynor, Nicholas and Trusdell brokerage failure cases. In both these cases this modern "David" is still seeking other "Goliaths" to slay, and is insisting that all the lawyers connected with the two bankruptcy proceedings keep incessantly at it to uncover wrong and criminal acts.

Referee Coffin is uncompromising in his fight on frauds in bankruptcies; whether they are big or little fellows. "An east side clothing dealer goes to jail if he tries to defraud a creditor," remarked Referee Coffin recently. "He is without political pull or influence. He cannot carry on legal fights costing thousands of dollars. He just goes to jail. The big fellows seem to have the idea, at least in the past, that they were different. They were more fortunate at times, perhaps, but in this court all frauds look alike."

Wall street and the business world did not know much about Referee Coffin, before the Fuller case. To the men in Wall street he was just one of the referees of the federal court, and with all respect, to Referee Coffin and its associates, the truth of the matter was that they looked upon him as a magistrate who could be tied up either by politics or by legal snarls and quarrels.

How wrong they were, recent events amply prove. Big or little bankrupts, where wrong doing is concerned, look alike to Referee Coffin as is shown from the transcript of his remarks on March 11, when Fuller and McGee had failed to put in an appearance before him for examination by attorneys for creditors seeking to learn what had become of their millions of dollars in securities or cash.

"They should have been here to face their creditors," said Referee Coffin. "This is one court that will deal properly with these gentlemen."

These words now seem prophetic in the light of the prison sentences since meted out to McGee and Fuller.

It was thus that the final troubles of Fuller and McGee started; which in turn led to the present Wall street cleansing of its Aegean debacles and a movement in financial circles, now in full swing,

HARDING, HOOVER TO BE AT FRISCO CONFERENCE

President Harding and Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, have been invited to attend the World Conference on Education in San Francisco June 27 to July 6. This will be the first gathering of this kind ever held and those behind it feel that its effects will eclipse the work that can be done by the League of Nations, world court and other peace seeking bodies.

"President Harding was invited because of the wide international complexion of the meeting which will draw together representatives from the 72 nations of the earth. The president is arranging a tour to Alaska during the summer and whether he can visit San Francisco during the conference will depend upon the Alaskan arrangements."

Mr. Hoover, who is expected to accompany the president to Alaska, may be prevented from attending for the same reason. If it is possible for Mr. Hoover to be present, he, as president of the American Child Health association, will be given a place of honor on the speaking program in connection with the International Health Conference which will be held simultaneously and as a part of the World Conference on Education. One of the prominent features of the program has been reserved for a discussion on international health, and this will be held for Mr. Hoover, until it is definitely known whether or not he can accept.

Augustus O. Thomas, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the world conference, has announced that as the time for the meeting draws near, increasing interest is being shown by foreign countries. Of the 72 nations of the world, 60 have already agreed to send representatives, and acceptances are momentarily expected from the remaining 12. Some of the countries will send as many as 20 delegates and alternatives. Some of the audiences are expected to reach 20,000 in attendance. Most of the meetings will be held in San Francisco's Exposition auditorium, which can accommodate the largest attendance expected.

which will tend largely to prevent the American public, the modest family of Main street, the widow and the orphan, being robbed and swindled by unscrupulous wolves of Wall street.

BRISK BUSINESS IS REPORT AT JENSEN'S

Drug Store Established 5 Months Ago Makes Good

Business is reported to be steadily on the increase at Jensen's Drug Store, which opened in the Palace Grand shop building in February. "Our fountain trade is all that we can handle, and we frequently feel the need of more seats in order to accommodate all of our customers," said Mr. Jensen.

"In our prescription department business is increasing daily. This, I feel, is due to the fact we are able to give very efficient service through Clyde L. Morrison, Frank F. Armour, and T. J. Armstrong, who are all most capable pharmacists."

"Our specialty is a complete line of toilet articles. Our stock is exceptionally large for a city of this size, and is composed of high grade goods such as only first class stores carry."

"We also offer the standard goods in drug sundries and carry a line of high grade candy, both in boxes and in bulk. Added to this, our delivery system is an attractive feature, of which customers are pleased to avail themselves."

LAWLESS LAW IS REAL MELODRAMA DUE AT T. D. & L.

"Law of the Lawless" with Dalton, DeRoche, Kosloff and Marshall is a show that is worth anyone's money. It cost a whole lot of cash to make and the money is all on the screen, to be shown Sunday at the T. D. & L. It is a real melodrama with DeRoche, his hands tied behind him, doing a lot of stunts in a fight with Kosloff, who is armed with a wicked knife in the top room of a burning minaret.

DeRoche can do all the acrobatic stuff that makes the gallery cheer. Kosloff is the heavy and handles himself with the polished Kosloffian aplomb. Dalton has one of those fast moving spit-fire parts that she likes.

The story is laid in a Tartar village and a gypsy camp. It was written by Konrad Bercovici, who knows gypsy and Tartar life and he helped in making the production accurate in every detail. It opens on the Tartar village. Dalton, the whirlwind daughter of an old man who has lost his fortune. He has heard all he owns to Ali, a battered old silver-smith, who has come to collect. Ali, (Tully Marshall), offers to cancel the debt if he can marry Dalton. The father, insulted, chases Ali out. Ali, not discouraged, gathers some jewels and finds Dalton, who has come dashing in on horseback. He tries to put a jeweled belt around her waist and as he does it, tries to draw her into his arms.

She knocks him down and pours a bucket of water on him. At that moment comes the call to prayer. They all kneel and bow seven times. Each time she bows, Dalton, who is near Ali, slips sand into his eyes.

Ali goes after revenge and, following the law, has the old man put on the auction block, to be sold as a slave for debt. Dalton, to save her father, takes his place, offering herself in marriage. Kosloff, her sweetheart, tries to stop her. He hasn't enough money to pay the debt. Ali tries to buy her in himself, but is outbid by DeRoche, a gypsy, who has just ridden into the village.

DeRoche is accompanied by his dog, a huge German police dog. To Tartars a dog is unclean and Nazim, a Tartar, kicks at the police dog, and tries to drive him out with success. The dog is DeRoche's best friend and now he adds Dalton to his family.

DeRoche takes her away. She has only contempt for gypsies and on their way to the gypsy camp, where he is the leader of the band, he tries to escape on horseback. He rides madly after her, across a stream and the excitement begins.

LIBERALS IN SWEDEN INCLINE TO PROHIBITION (By Associated Press) STOCKHOLM, June 29.—Prohibition as a plank in the liberal platform is responsible for a reduction of the liberal party representation in the lower house of parliament from 110 members ten years ago to 39 at the present time.

At a recent extraordinary meeting of the liberal party this question was discussed, and after a long debate on the question whether or not to include prohibition in the party platform, 77 voted for and 56 against its inclusion.

The conductor observed a tramp stowed away on the front end of the baggage car. He told a brakeman to throw him off at the next station.

The brakeman went, but when he was about to start the throwing-off process, the tramp drew a revolver and advised him to retreat. The advice seemed good and the brakeman took it.

Upon his return the conductor asked him if he had got rid of the tramp, whereupon the brakeman said: "No, I didn't have the heart to do it. You see, I found he was an old schoolmate of mine."

"That don't cut no ice with me," said the conductor. "Just wait until I get at him. You'll see something flying in the air then."

The conductor went forward, but soon returned looking pale. "Did you throw him off?" asked the brakeman. "No," replied the conductor. "He turned out to be an old schoolmate of mine, too."

STYLES FOR GIRLS WHO HAVE TO ECONOMIZE

By HEDDA HOYT

Fashion Editor of the United Press
(Written for the United Press)
NEW YORK, N. Y., June 29 (United Press).

Dear Hedda Hoyt
I know a girl
Who reads the guff
You write about
The latest fads
And she is dressed
In duds that look
About as old
As old Tut's bones
And as she reads
That ostrich fans
Are just the thing
To shoo a fly
And that three loops
Of costly pearls
Should hang where one Entwined last season
That Ermine jackets
Worked in gold
Are worn by the debutantes
Her threadbare shoulders
Heave a sigh.
Now, in the name
Of K. C. B.
Are there no styles
For such girls as she?
I wonder!

H. G. M.

Space prevents me from replying to H. G. M. in the above manner, but there certainly are styles for the bread-and-butter girl. Summer, with its inexpensive fabrics and its color range, offers tremendous opportunities to such a girl. However, she must have brains and the ability to stretch a dollar like an elastic band.

Clothes need not be expensive to be beautiful. Who shall say that the vivid rose, simply because it is the chosen flower of society and costs as much per blossom as a room full of wild roses?

The poor girl can be as charming in cotton fabrics as the society girl in her fur jacket worked in gold. If she but chooses clothes best suited to her lines that display most effectively her youthful charms.

A Few Dress Hints

Here are a few dress hints which may assist the girl with a limited dress income in the purchasing of her summer wardrobe:

Instead of the popular pleated skirt, buy your material by the yard and have it pleated over the hips only. This will give the popular side panel effect and no re-pleating will be needed during the summer, as pleats that fall over the back of the skirt soon come out of beat.

Cotton crepe undergarments are inexpensive, wear well and require no ironing. Voile and cotton crepes are quite as pretty as ordinary and do not muss easily. They are replacing gingham, as they launder more easily. Trimmed in wool flowers, hemstitching or featherstitching they are extremely lovely though, inexpensive. White canvas shoes are cheaper, easier and look as well as leather.

A Pretty Sport Blouse
Two bandana squares sewn together at the sides with the ends for tying on the hips and tucked together at the shoulders make a pretty sport blouse. Cotton squares in pretty pastel colors are as costly as the silk squares and do not fade off on the body or silk ones.

Hew to the line of the silhouette, color your material be the cheap, cotton.

Colored shoes may be browned in old.

Sheer white stockings are not becoming on the leg as heavier ones.

Keep your entire wardrobe in harmonizing colors that can be changed together without clashing. Hats and shoes in subdued shades.

Remove sleeves and cut off skirt of old dress and behold the fashionable swimming dress of today.

OBSERVATIONS

BY A GLENDALE OLD TIMER

John C. Sherer, the grand old pioneer of Glendale, has given to us in his recently published book, "Glendale and Vicinity," one of the finest and most valuable literary contributions that this community has ever received. With painstaking accuracy he has traced the history of the Spanish discoverers and settlers from 1513 down to the acquiring by the Verdugos and others of the immense tracts of land which now comprise the San Fernando valley. Then he has outlined the gradual absorbing by incoming settlers of large and small tracts for ranches and finally their grouping together to form the two villages of Tropic and Glendale, along in the early eighties. Many views of wide expanses of country now covered with homes and business houses are shown, and the contrast of the then virgin territory with the present solidly built city is great. Stories of the early settlers are given and the gradual growth of the city is pictured. As the author became a resident on the 17-acre ranch he still inhabits, in 1880, before there was a city of Glendale and when the houses in the territory now enclosed by the city's boundary lines could have been counted on the fingers of his two hands, he is peculiarly fitted for the task he has finished so well. The book, printed in large clear type and beautifully bound, is a treasure house of knowledge and worthy of a place in every Glendale home. The copies placed in the public libraries should be in great demand.

To most of those who have left homes in the rural regions of the east and to some who are so unfortunate as to be always lived in cities, a threshing machine, with its engine to transport, and its outfit from place to place and furnish the motive power for separating the grain from the head, and also the separator itself, is a familiar object. But the first threshing outfit I ever saw was a home-made one and here is how it was constructed. A perfectly level plot of ground was selected and a circular space about 15 to 20 feet in diameter was scraped smooth and then made as hard as possible. The wheat or oats shocks were then hauled in from the field, the bands of sheaves cut and the straw scattered evenly and thickly over the circular space. In the center of which a post was erected. Two horses were driven around and around, side by side, trampling the grain from the heads. At intervals men with pitchforks would throw the straw to the center, so that all the heads would be trodden by the horses' feet. When it was thought the job had been thoroughly done, the horses were removed and the threshed straw was carefully lifted with pitchforks and well shaken to sift all the grains through, then thrown to one side. When all the straw had been removed, the grain was carefully gathered up, dust and all, and run through the fanning mill, which was a part of every farmer's equipment. In this there were several square or oblong frames covered with wire of different meshes. The turning of a crank imparted a shaking motion to these frames and the grains fell through the coarser mesh and on down to the finest, losing in each dust, which were blown out at the back of the mill by a powerful revolving fan worked by the same crank that agitated the frames. Sometimes the wheat was run through the mill two or three times and it came out at last pretty clean. Of course, considerable of the grain was not trodden out by the horses and this necessarily was a complete loss. But that could not be helped, so was expected. Then came the regular threshing machine. At first without an engine, what was called a horse-power being used to run it. This was circular platform set above a large cogwheel and with six wooden beams, eight or ten feet long, radiating from it at regular intervals. The big cogwheel was attached to a long iron rod, about two inches in diameter, extending to the separator, on which was a cogwheel connected with the threshing machinery. This cog-

Pearls are becoming more and more popular for evening wear. The above photograph shows a very dainty arrangement. Three wheels of pearls adorn the side of the head in a long tassel of pearls.

The difficulties of even so short a trip as the one described.

It is rather singular, yet true, that some of the most valuable inventions of modern times were suggested years before the inventors began working on them, by novelists. Most of us old timers remember how we thrilled with shivery delight as we traveled with Jules Verne "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," and what the submarine hero Captain Nemo of the Nautilus was in our eyes. "The book was written 40 years before a practical submarine was perfected and even yet no undersea boat compares in marvelous construction and efficiency with the mythical Nautilus, and none has developed its cruising power and radius. But undoubtedly the Frenchman's marvelous modern submarine, more than 25 years ago Mark Twain wrote a book "Pudd'nhead Wilson," in which the thumb prints of certain characters, carefully recorded on bits of glass and preserved for years led to the detection and punishment of a vile murderer and the establishment of the true identity of a wronged youth. Now the system of finger or thumb prints, elaborated by M. Bertillon, is universally used by crime-detecting agencies as an absolutely certain means of identifying criminals. That which in Mark Twain's mind was only a fanciful yet certain theory is now an established fact. Forty years ago Byron A. Dunn of Waukegan, Illinois, told in one of his stories of the Civil war of a "successful lie detector," to bring the truth from a captured prisoner. Today, a Texas doctor has seemingly perfected a system by which the truth can be wrung from the most hardened criminal with infallible accuracy. And it is all done by working on the subconscious mind of the criminal. This theory was elaborated quite fully by Morgan Robertson, also, about 20 or 25 years ago, in several of his sea stories, he using "Old Man Finnegan" as his subject. Speaking of Morgan Robertson reminds me of another curious prophetic story of his. Early in the present century he wrote a short novel, "The Wreck of the Titan," in which a dissipated naval officer ships on board the largest passenger ship afloat, a regular sea palace, furnished with every luxury and lacking only one thing—sufficient boats to carry all of the passengers and crew in case of accident. Driven at top speed in a dense fog, despite remonstrances, the great vessel strikes an iceberg, slides smoothly up an incline on to a wide ice plateau and then tumbles over on its side and rolls off into the sea. Nearly all of the 3000 passengers are drowned. Five years later the great ship Titanic on her maiden voyage, with 2000 passengers aboard, was wrecked almost exactly as was the mythical Titan, and all but a very few of those on board were drowned, among them Major Archie Butt, the president's personal envoy to the Vatican; Isidor Straus, famous Jewish financier, and philanthropist, with his wife; John Jacob Astor, millionaire clubman, and many others.

My little story last week about a trip to Merom, Ind., stirred old memories in the mind of D. B. Scruggs, salesman in Ralph's grocery, and he told me of a trip he made several years ago from West Union, a little station on the Big Four in Clark county, Ill., 3 miles from the Wabash river, to Melrose, a small settlement six or eight miles west. He was traveling salesman then for the Bucher Gibbs firm, whom he had met by chance. Mr. Scruggs started for Melrose, Ill., in the early spring time and there had been heavy and long-continued rains. For half a mile out of West Union there was a good gravel road but when the end of that was reached the horses plunged knee deep into sticky mud. They wallowed through, at a snail's pace, and finally the destination was reached. As Mr. Scruggs found a good order awaiting him he felt repaid for a trip, though on the going and returning trips there was hardly a minute when the two men did not fear the breaking of a single tree or some part of the harness. One who has never traveled Illinois mud roads in winter or spring time can form little idea of

REFRIGERATOR IS POPULAR SELLER IN SUMMER

"These are nice refrigerators, and thereby hangs a good story," said D. L. Larkin, manager of the Good Housekeeping Shop, 140 South Brand boulevard, pointing to one of the white enamel Gurney refrigerators near the front of the store.

"They were shipped to Los Angeles and were never claimed by the firm that ordered them. After keeping them the time limit, the express company sold them, and we happened to come in on the sale of them. Therefore, we can offer them at exactly the price that it would cost us to go out into the market today and buy them wholesale. Anyone examining them, will readily see that they are very high grade refrigerators.

"In fact, they were manufactured by one of the largest manufacturing plants in the world, located at Fond du Lac, Wisconsin. They are of all steel construction, with double flaxium lining and double air space, and full eight wall box, which is the highest type of refrigerator construction. The ice capacity is 100 pounds, with the ice chamber of galvanized wilder metal.

"Also in this purchase we included some very fine white enamel kitchen tables, single, double, and six drawer, with porcelain tops. These will fit into the nicest kitchens, and will prove invaluable to the housewife who is interested in 'good housekeeping,' and by that we include all of them, it may be presumed."

Old Uncle Dan'l had lived long and peacefully on the fruits of his wife's toil at the wash tub, until one day Miss Lucy, fresh from a northern college, planted a bomb-shell in his quiet existence by finding him a job as watchman on a neighboring estate. The day before he was to begin work he presented himself, a wobegone figure, before his benefactress.

"Miss Lucy," he began, "Ah reckon I've got to retah from dat job you done got me."

"Retire?" said the astonished Miss Lucy. "Why, you haven't begun yet."

"O' co'se, in a manner o' speakin', I ain't. Miss Lucy—but you see it's dis a-way. All dese weeks ah been settin' dere studyin' and studyin' about dis here job ah's gwine to take, an', Miss Lucy, ah tells yer der truf, ah ben wukkin' at dat job so much in my mind dat ah'es jes' plumb wo' out."

REDUCE RATES ON CLEANING AND DYEING

Between July 2 and 7, the Peerless Cleaners and Dyers of 221 East Broadway announce that a reduction of 20 per cent will be effective on all work brought to their establishment.

"We have our own plant here," stated J. W. Settle, proprietor, "and do all of our own cleaning right at the plant, so that this is a strictly Glendale place of business. We positively clean anything, including gloves, rugs, draperies, curtains, blankets, clothing of all kinds, and guarantee our work as far as it is possible for any establishment of this kind to do, in that, if we cannot remove a spot from the article to be cleaned we refund the money, and if the customer finds another cleaner who does succeed in removing the spot, we pay for having it done."

Further particulars regarding the reduction for the first days of July are to be found in the Saturday shopping news advertisements.

PLAGUE RAGES IN INDIA

[By Associated Press]

SIMLA, India, June 29.—Bubonic plague is raging throughout British India as it has not raged for five years. The disease threatens to become epidemic, and already has been the cause of panic in several of the larger cities.

The rise in this plague year began in December. During the month of March 36,000 deaths were recorded, against an average for the previous four years for the same month of 14,423.

The governmental authorities ascribe the plague to rats getting into the grain, and advise the people to build rat-proof grain warehouses and to destroy the rodents.

LONG BEACH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HEAD FINED

[By Associated Press]

LONG BEACH, June 29.—Chas. F. Henderson, former president of the chamber of commerce, former president of the Long Beach Rotarians and former sheriff of Silver Bow county, Montana, appeared in police court yesterday afternoon and paid a $30 fine for having driven his automobile in excess of the lawful speed limit.

"A judge can have no friends when they appear before him charged with violation of the law," commented Police Judge Carl V. Hawkins on the case.

Many a man stumbles over imaginary things in his path.

By an Interior Decorator

The growing generation in homes which exhibit the effect of interior decorating is being subjected to an influence that is hard to estimate but which is undoubtedly beneficial. This is true whether the art's principles are applied by professional or by informal amateur decorators.

It is not difficult to believe that the boy or girl whose family life centers about a living room furnished according to informal fusion of pictures, and silhouettes will be most fitting.

Wing chairs or Windsor chairs with rush seats, will be appropriately used. There will be no ceiling lights. Instead there will be the bracket lamps and portable ones.

If the furnisher has decided to have Colonial block-figured wall paper instead of easing plain surfaces, there will be overpanels at the windows which repeat the chief color tone of the paper. This Colonial standards will have his taste and his feeling of American life affected. The subtle language of color and form will whisper to him. The echo of an earlier, stricter civilization will penetrate his feeling of home.

The elements that enter into furnishing such a room are easy to grasp. The floors may be of fairly broad boards covered with braided rugs placed with reference to the shape of the room. The walls may be of rough plaster, natural or in quiet tints, with a low wainscoting; or they may be paneled. There will be no pro-

Ruffled flit net curtains, either with no design or with small all-over patterns, will be hung next the window glass. They will permit sunlight to enter without obstruction, except such as will diffuse the radiance and eliminate glare.

THIRTY THOUSAND RUSSIAN TEACHERS GET U. S. FOOD

MOSCOW (By Mail).—Thirty thousand school teachers and other thousands of doctors, scientists, artists, musicians and actors have participated in a gift of $1,000,000 worth of food packages distributed within the past few months by the American Relief administration and paid for by anonymous well-wishers in the United States.

These food packages have been scattered all over Russia from Petrograd in the north to Odessa and the Crimea in the south, from the Ural mountains in the east to the Polish border. The beneficiaries are all of the educated class which rarely participates in a general relief scheme and whose need has been peculiarly great owing to the general poverty which prevails.

"We've started something with this distribution," said Colonel William N. Haskell, director of the Russian unit of the American Relief administration, when he recently returned to Moscow from the south. "All the musicians in Odessa claim that the A. R. A. likes them best, and point to the number of food packages they got to prove it. Then the artists get excited and begin to reckon where they stand. The doctors claim that they stand the lot. The professors and teachers are quite sure that they do. It has got so that there is a regular contest between the groups, each trying to prove that it ranks highest in America's favor."

The task of selecting the beneficiaries of this relief was one requiring tact, judgment and patience. To reach the most distressing cases, to test the need of people suggested by the different groups, without hurting either personal feelings or class prejudices, was a delicate matter. Questionnaires were prepared; prominent people asked for lists of names; and from the data thus obtained a painstaking selection was made.

It is considered significant that in Petrograd a list of 124 names prepared by Maxim Gorky as far back as 1921 as being especially worthy of help from the point of view of science and culture, when checked against the new list independently prepared without reference to the Gorky recommendation, showed that 20 per cent of the names he had listed were included as recipients of the recently distributed food packages, in spite of the fact that during the past two years since the original list was prepared, there have been many deaths and removals.

In reporting on the distribution of the general relief packages in Petrograd, Donald Renshaw, supervisor of that district for the A. R. A., writes: "We have not received a single complaint that the unworthy were being helped or caused in a single instance of having been improperly influenced."

NOW YOU CAN SWAP-SWAP-SWAP

The Glendale Daily Press Has Started a Special Swapper's Column in Its Want Ad Section. Read It and Profit Thereby

Clean Out That Attic, Storeroom or Cellar!

Swap the Things You Don't Want! Get in Return the Things You Really Want and Need!

It's Fun to Swap!

Remember how, as a boy, you were always swapping a knife for a ball-bat; a fish-pole for a sling-shot; anything for everything? Wasn't it fun?

Of course, swapping is fun. It always has been; it still is; it always will be. Thousands of people who read the GLENDALE DAILY PRESS are going to have fun swapping every day.

Every day their SWAP-ADS will be published. Hundreds of people will read each ad. All sorts of swaps will be made—phonographs for radio sets, pigs for chickens, chairs for tables, dogs for cats, automobiles for vacant lots, washing machines for lawn-mowers—any thing for everything.

You can share in the fun. Be a swapper! Start now. Decide at once what you want to swap and send in the SWAP-AD today.

Swapping Saves Money!

Usually it takes money to buy something new. But swapping is different.

The swapper needs no money. He simply takes the things he already has and does not use—things which may really be nuisances to him. By swapping these he gets in return the things he really wants. He spends no money. It's easy, isn't it?

You can be a swapper if you wish. Fill in the blank at the opposite lower corner of this page today.

Truths in Epigram

It is absurd to suppose, if this is God's world, that men must always be selfish barbarians.—Dole.

Genius hath electric power Which earth can never tame. Bright suns may scorch and dark clouds lower, Its flash is still the same.—Child

To appreciate heaven well 'Tis good for a man to have some fifteen minutes of hell.—Carleton.

DISCUSSING PEOPLE

Probably no convention has carried quite the interest that is being taken in the discussions of the American Medical association now in session in San Francisco. The press wires have carried very complete accounts of the thoughts advanced by the physicians and surgeons.

"Health," said Dr. Oscar Dowling, state health officer of Louisiana, "implies right conditions for the growth and development of the child, proper heredity, prenatal care of the mother, recreational direction, and ideal environment. In securing these results every part of the body politic bears reciprocal responsibility."

A plea for more efficiency and less spectacular advertising in public health work on the part of volunteer organizations was made before the convention by Dr. Frederick D. Stricker of Portland, Oregon. "There is need for some sort of regulation to prevent 'blue sky' health propaganda," he said in demanding that the public be informed just how the money contributed for public health is expended by volunteer agencies.

Constructive health activities were urged in the public schools by Dr. John Sundwall of the University of Michigan. "School children should be taught ineradicable health habits," he said, "and should be instilled with a keen appreciation of the fact that maintenance of healthy bodies and their proper development are moral obligations they owe to society and to their country."

Babies catch cold because their parents and friends have colds for them to catch, Dr. W. T. Winholt and Prof. E. O. Jordan of the University of Chicago told the delegates. They had made a study of babies with and without colds which showed such to be the case. Colds were more dangerous to babies than to grown-ups, the doctors said, as they tended to derange the digestion and other bodily functions.

An appeal to mothers to nurse their babies was made by Dr. M. L. Turner of Des Moines, Iowa. "Animals nurse their young as they have done for centuries," he declared, "only the genus Homo has gone astray." Dr. Turner urged physicians to tell mothers that the good of their babies and the good of the race demanded that they give their infants their natural food which no artificial product could equal.

The case of a 19-year old girl who reverted for one month to a period in her life corresponding to the age of four years was described. She showed for this time nothing but childish traits and lost all memory of recent happenings. Later she recovered and remained normal for five years. A severe recurrence ending in death followed. An autopsy showed no apparent abnormal condition other than a general inflammation of the membrane covering the brain.

An infection of the human eye by the eggs of the sheep-bot, a common sheep parasite of the southwest, was described by Dr. H. H. Stark of El Paso, Texas. This is the first case of its kind recorded in the United States. The patient was a 16-year old girl who suffered from inflammation of the eyeball until the offending organisms were removed. An eye infection by the organism known as filaria, common in the tropics, was reported by Dr. J. W. Kimber of Kansas City, Mo. This is also very rare in this country, cases occurring commonly only in returned missionaries or others who have lived long in tropical countries.

Thus, through the interchange of thoughts and experiences is the world of medicine enriched. The public naturally has an interest in it all as the people are the subjects. It is the people these men are discussing, or at least what is ailing the people.

MAKING LIARS TRUTHFUL

To make truth tellers of men by making it mentally impossible for them to lie is one of the things that is interesting, if not especially serviceable in the administration of justice.

Thus the proposed administration of scopolamin to wrest the truth from the unwilling. Few juries, we take it, will be convinced by the relations of the drugged mind. And few accused persons will permit themselves to be injected with drug for the purpose of convicting themselves.

The whole thing, it seems, is in the realm with the experts who would tell the liar from the truth-teller by means of the pulse. Many truthful persons have had erratic pulses. Many consummate criminals and liars have had regular and normal ones.

It makes interesting "first page" stuff. But it does not specially dignify scientific research or those who pretend to be scientific observers. On the whole, it casts a kind of shadow over real scientific research and observation.

One pugilist never offers to fight another just for fun.

You can buy some people dirt cheap if there are no other bidders.

Family of pride has ruined the prospects of many a fine young man.

It is an easy matter to take a cheerful view of the troubles of other people.

A REVIVAL

President Harding is arousing the interest of the press correspondents by his "evangelism." His pleas for a return to the simple old-fashioned Christian faith have given us first page comment and plenty of it.

We like the President's attitude in this proceeding and appeal. And we hope he pleads effectively for a return to the simple Christian faith of the Master Himself. There is in that the solution for the trials and difficulties of the world.

A spiritual revival. Not a thing of tumult and shouting. Not a thing of blare and bugle and violent exhortation. But a real revival of the best spirit of the people to kindness, generosity, benevolence, tolerance, and a casting out of hatred, greed, bitterness, sham and hypocrisy. If this be a spiritual revival let us all engage in it and join with it and be glad for it. Either it must come, or we are headinglong toward disaster.

This nation and the people of it need nothing as much as a wholesome revival of individual spirit. The same spirit that our fathers had who founded this nation. The same spirit that they had who preserved it. The same spirit which was awakened in the late war in the hearts of millions.

We need to keep that spirit alive. The President can do nothing more splendid than to help awaken it where it sleeps.

No matter how much a man dislikes a creditor he is apt to ask him to call again.

Life—Death and Invention

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Dr. Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins is busy experimenting with human cells. He hopes to prove that by the skillful use of the X-rays feeble cells can be killed off and healthy ones renewed; and his publicity department predicts that these experiments may result in extending human life indefinitely in this body.

The Rockefeller Institute experimenters have succeeded in keeping alive a portion of the heart of a chicken for eleven years, which inspires Dr. Pearl to hope for immortality or something approaching it in this incarnation.

Digest that, then read this: Somebody who thinks war not yet sufficiently terrible has announced the invention of artificial lighting. It is to be used in war and will blot out whole armies. At the close of the recent war it was whispered that some scientist whose name did not appear in the public prints had invented a poison that would annihilate entire populations.

We all know that it is the young who suffer most in war.

With such weapons of destruction available and an accumulation of nations stupid enough to use war as a weapon for settling disputes, where will the world get off if on one hand we have a group of scientists planning to keep life in anybody who will pay for it and on the other a group working forever on more and more terrible instruments of destruction to be released on the young?

Dr. Pearl says he hopes within a measurably short time that people can live for 500 or 600 years and be young all the time.

Help. Most people are now tired by the time they are 50; thoroughly disillusioned at 60 and bored to tears through the years that cluster around them before departing time arrives.

Health is a wonderful tonic, but health alone is not the inspiration that drives to living. That is spiritual and arises from successful social and personal relations.

To an observer it looks as if men and women were forgetting the rare art of living together. Broken homes are so common that we scarcely raise our eyebrows when we hear of a new dissolution of the marital partnership.

Suicide and murder are on the increase, and even children are refusing to grow up, preferring to die before taking up the full burden of living. In the face of such facts, why talk of extending life? Duration is not living. What humanity needs is not longer life but better life, deeper life, greater interests, broader sympathies and some vision of things that will open to the masses a hope of security for love and those who are our beloved.

Until we refuse to consider the use of man-made lightning, liquid fire and poison gas on the young men of the race it is a mockery of the human heart to hold out the hope of longer life. It may interest scientists to experiment with tissue and X-rays, but before man as a whole can greatly desire to prolong the span between the cradle and the grave, somebody must find a way to make men get along together without killing off tens of thousands, nay, millions of the best blood of each generation.

It is not just life that we crave; it's love and the things that make life more than breathing, and a struggle for food.

Queries

George Karnab. Kindly inform me which of the following is correct: "that sort of things," or "that sort of thing."

Answer: Correct examples: that sort of thing; that kind of grapes.

Fannie Eisen: "Kindly advise whether the following sentence is grammatical: 'By the time this letter reaches you, no doubt out Mr. . . . will have been there and acquainted you with the situation of this market.'"

Answer: The sentence is grammatical. Whether or not the sentence could be improved is difficult to say without knowing its connection with the balance of the composition of which it is a part.

THE LISTENING POST

By JAMES W. JOLEY

Life is a kind of bridge of stepping stones across a stream.

We might say the stream was Time.

And from youth to age, which are the banks of the stream, we make our progress.

Sometimes the crossing of the stream is interrupted by accident or mischance.

And we slip from the bridge and are cast into the stream.

But all of us have to get out to cross the stream.

And the bridge is not always firm and stable and sure like a concrete structure made by hands.

For a lot of uncertainties enter into the matter of crossing.

Some of the stepping stones are square and flat and the footing is good.

Some are irregular and slippery.

For chance and circumstance enter into the building of the bridge across the stream.

Then there is environment.

Education.

Hereditary predisposition.

Health.

Passion.

Ambition.

Greed.

All of these are included in the sometimes slippery stones that make the bridge across the stream.

In a way, we choose the stones upon which our feet shall tread in passing over.

Sometimes we step from the sure and safe stone of effort and purpose to the slippery and treacherous stone of greed or desire.

Balanced on that slippery stone, we stand and look for another stone that shall aid us in crossing.

And often we jump to another treacherous stone.

Finally to slip from the bridge and go down into dangerous waters and currents.

But our progress must continue.

There is no stopping in the way across the stream.

There is the safe and steady and sure progress.

Standing upon a firm and flat and secure stone and looking carefully before the next step.

And there is the headlong and dangerous and unsafe hop, skip and jump.

Trusting to luck and chance.

And there are many temptations to make haste.

To hurry and jump far in a little time.

To disregard the matter of safety.

To risk a slippery stone as a means to reaching a desirable place.

If you will watch the river and the bridge you will see many persons crossing.

You will see some balancing dangerously on insecure footing.

You will see others firmly standing in safe places.

Occasionally you will see a slip, a fall, and a splash.

So do all of us seek stepping stones to cross the stream.

The river rushes rapidly, the bridge of stepping stones is often slippery, and there is need for care.

WHAT ABOUT HENRY JAMES?

To the many readers of Henry James' column of comment on the news of the day who inquired regarding the absence of the comment, it should be said that Mr. James is taking a vacation. During this period he will secure a complete rest, that is, if an automobile trip through the states of California, Oregon, Washington and into Montana will allow a rest.

Decked out in a khaki shirt, old clothes and a soft hat he started from Pasadena with a cheery smile and a huge black cigar protruding from his mouth. He looked the picture of comfort and happiness.

"Don't expect to get a line from me, not even a picture postal card," he said as the automobile pulled away. "This is to be a real vacation. Good bye."

And he was off on the great adventure, the longest automobile trip he has ever attempted and through a country of great diversity. All the wealth of the great west will be revealed to him. He will see the progress that recent years have brought to this great country lying on the far western coast of the United States and when he returns to his desk he will have much to say of what he has seen.

Mr. James will be away for a matter of two or three weeks and during this period it will be necessary to omit his column of comment. He will have an uninterrupted vacation. The thought of writing will be farthest from his mind. He will live the life of a wanderer, stopping at night where darkness overtakes him, trying out country hotels or possibly hay stacks.

And when he returns he will take up his pen refreshed, vigorous and with a new theme to write about—the greatest bit of country in the world, the west.

OUR CHILDREN

BREAKING THE RULES

There are no rules for the bringing up of children. That is, there are no rules that are always sure and always right for every child in the world, or even for one child at a time.

That's because no two children were ever alike, no two mothers or fathers or teachers were ever alike, nor are the conditions alike for all children even in the same home. What worked this morning at 7 o'clock for Tom, will not work at 7 that night for the same Tom. That's what makes the lot of a parent or teacher so hard.

There's never any resting place except bed and we all know that is not certain either.

But there is something that does work in every case if only you can get hold of it when you need it. Common sense. Of course, that is not as common as one could wish, still it is obtainable. One buys it only with experience and taking thought and trying again.

"You say force is bad. Now what shall I do when my child insists upon running into the roadway. He may be killed by a motor!"

Take him out of the road and impress upon him that he is to stay out of it. That's common sense. A two or three year old child has no notion of danger. He should never be allowed on the streets alone.

If he is with you and you cannot keep him close to you, hold his hand. If that won't work put horse-lines on him and lead, or drive him, until he knows how to look out for himself. Children like the gay-colored lines with the little bells.

"You say not to slap children. What are you going to do with one who insists upon playing with the fire? I either have to slap him or let him burn himself."

Then slap him! For my part I cannot see why he should be where the fire is. If he is old enough to play with the fire he is old enough to stay in another room and be out of sight or reach of the fire. And he could, unless he was mentally defective, have been taught to obey sufficiently to keep away from the stove, at least. But if you cannot keep him from fire any other way than to slap him, you will have to slap him—and confess that you are rather shy on common sense in bringing up children.

What will you do when he throws the comb out of the window, or stops the plumbing with his boat, or mixes a pie in the flour bin, or paints the hallway with blueing, or uses your hat for a dipper? Slap him some more?

Little ones too young to reason with have to be kept out of trouble. Keep them away from danger! Keep them out of the kitchen! Put away the fragile and cherished bits of household art until they are a little older and can understand your cautions. Use your common sense.

There are a few broad principles of education that stand the test of modern child training. Those we hold by.

As for the rules? The fewer you make for yourself and the children, the less you will have to break. And every one in a while all the rules go by the board and you steer uncharted ways, guided by your common sense.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

I cannot remember who said it first. But some one, sometime, uttered this profound truth:

"If you want to have a friend you must be a friend."

It had not occurred to me—until today—that this is one of the actual facts of every day life. I had put it up on the mantel, as we used to put steins. I had never realized that friendship needs cultivation as much as any other flower in our life's garden. Solly Gordon opened my eyes.

"He's my warmest friend," I have said for years.

We used to go camping together. When we were kids we courted sisters and fought in hollow squares against all other kids. We borrowed each other's money when we grew older. Our wives even managed to be pretty good pals, which speaks for their innate kindness of heart. It is often the first business of a wife to detest the wife of her husband's chum almost as violently as she hates the chum.

Then Solly moved to another city and we began to drift apart. When we got together we were congenial, but a film had come over the surface of our friendship. Last week Solly came in and tried to borrow money and I turned him down. I did not have the money to spare. I was truthful in saying so and I convinced him of that fact.

But if we had been as close as we used to be, I would have gotten that money for him if I had pawned my wife's watch. Absence and time had destroyed the friendship. I have no more feeling for Solly today than I have for fifty other men.

Maybe—let's be bold and calm about this—this is just as well. Youth is the time for emotion. This sounds cynical and nasty. But I've known many a man ruined because a sentiment proper to his youth was permitted to influence his mature judgment.
